JURY ACQUITS SINCLAIR IN OIL CONSPIRACY CASE

Jury Verdict Frees Sinclair Of Conspiracy

Trial Was Outcome Of Charges In Leasing Of Teapot Dome Oil Reserves

JURY DELIBERATES BUT SHORT TIME

Second Verdict Of "Not Guilty" In Oil Conspiracy Case Charges

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 21.—A "jury of peers" today absolved Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil man, of the government's charges of criminal conspiracy rising from his leasing of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserves.

The jury deliberated for an hour and fifty minutes.

Benjamin Anderson, 59, a store manager, rendered the decision as their foreman. They were immediately discharged and they went to the third floor room that has been a veritable cell for them for the past two weeks to pack their effects and go home.

Today's "not guilty" verdict marked the government's second failure to secure a criminal conviction in the oil scandals. Former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall and E. L. Doheny, California oil magnate, having been acquitted in 1926.

Under Two Jail Sentences.

Sinclair was charged with having given former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall a $233,000 bribe to secure the oil lease. Fall, who was indicted with him, was too ill to stand trial.

The oil man already is under two jail sentences as a result of his part in the oil scandals of 1923. His refusal to answer questions of the senate investigating committee netted

Schooner Rammed And Sunk, Report Crew Is Rescued

Steamship Lackawanna Rams Schooner To Bottom Of Vineyard Sound

(International News Service)

WOODS HOLE, Mass., April 21. — The two masted schooner Sharpshooter was rammed and sunk by the American steamship Lackawanna and the crew of the schooner was rescued, according to radio messages received today at the United States coastguard base here.

The scene of the accident was off bell buoy number 25, middle ground, Vineyard Sound.

Coastguard patrol boat number 137, which picked up the radiogram, hastened to the scene, but found that the crew of the Sharpshooter was safely aboard the steamship. The Sharpshooter was understood to carry between 20 and 30 men.

The Sharpshooter, according to the brief radio reports, was rammed under a starlit sky and officials here were at loss to account for the sea crash.

The brief radio message stated that the Lackawanna was rounding Cape Cod enroute to Boston with the crew of the Sharpshooter.

Rogers to Ask Money Back If Democrats Shake

(Special To The News)

FAIRMONT, W. Va., April 21.—I am here in the home town of Clem Shaver, the head of the Democrats. He tells me the Democrats are going to be so peaceful and hungry for harmony at their convention that you won't hardly know they are Democrats.

Well, if I go there and they are as he says, I certainly will ask for my money back. They have worked for years to bring their conventions up to a show and now they want to crab it.

I have been investigating the condition of the coal mines all day. They are not nearly as bad as the condition of the second hand automobile dealers.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

The whole of Long avenue was disrupted again yesterday afternoon. The flivver belonging to Samuels pere and fils refused. Urchins pushed, grunted, sweated and gave up in disgust. No amount of pushing would move the vehicle. Finally through the combined efforts of a horse and more boys and men than one can count with any degree of accuracy the flivver was started only to stop again.

Rather gaudy is the whole of Long avenue these days, what with special spring sales, auction sales and what have you. But all of these did not worry one woman who for a long time stood looking at a bank poster Handkerchief on her head, she stood looking, looking and looking. On the poster there was the picture of a ship, the magic word POLAND and then some matter in a language which uses many more consonants than vowels. Finally she shook her head sadly and moved on.

One of Pa Newc's best friends, 'Squire Cooper, the long arm of the law of the South Side and "the judge" as patrolmen call him, has been paying less and less attention to his work as spring advances. But his back yard shows it. There is a neatly spaded garden, rows of seeds are planted, each captioned by what they might be when they grow up. Also the 'Squire has been doing some concreting. But that should be sub rosa.

As work progresses on the airports and further details are being revealed of the interest being shown in aviation in this city there is every indication that New Castle is going to step to the fore in Western Pennsylvania this summer in aviation. The latest bit of information is that a large passenger plane is to be procured for service at the Harlansburg road airport for traffic between this city and Pittsburgh. The airport heads are at the Detroit areo show at the present time to pick out the machine it has been stated.

Clean-up week is to be inaugurated throughout the state on Monday. The first day is designated as Highway day and the idea is that streets sidewalks gutters should be cleaned, ditches and sewers opened and everything done to put the highways and streets in the best possible condition.

It must have been outdoor day at the Lincoln-Garfield school yesterday afternoon for about 50 boys and girls under the direction of a physical education teacher were desporting themselves in the yard of the building. And Pa Newc ventures to say that no rookie unit in the army could have done any better after a year's practice. All of their movements were in perfect rhythm. All seemed to enjoy it while other activities on East Long avenue were almost suspended because of the spectacle.

And after many weeks of preparation the branch library has opened at

Relief Plane To Greenely Island Runs Into Delay

Illness Of Pilots Bernt Balchen And Floyd Bennett Caused Delay In Plans

"DUKE" SCHILLER MAY MAKE FLIGHT

Balchen Hopes To Get Away For Labrador Early Sunday Morning

(International News Service)

LAKE AGNES, Que., April 21.—Owing to the illness of the aviators, the tri-motored Ford plane carrying replacement parts to Greenely Island for the Bremen will not hop off here until tomorrow.

Floyd Bennett was ill upon the plane's arrival here and Charles "Duke" Schiller was selected to take his place. The plane was to have left at 8:30 this morning, but Bernt Balchen, the pilot, contracted a bad cold and the hop was postponed until tomorrow morning at 5:30. If Bennett is able he will accompany Balchen tomorrow instead of Schiller.

Both Are in Bed

Both Balchen and Bennett are sick in bed. Bennett was a patient in the Ford hospital at Detroit, suffering from influenza, when the relief flight was planned. He left his sick bed to accompany Balchen to this place. He had a high fever when he arrived and a doctor had to be summoned from Lamalbac, 14 miles distant, over the mountains.

While Balchen is hopeful of getting away tomorrow, it seems unlikely that Bennett will be able to go with him. His place may be taken either by Schiller or Romeo Vachon, a Canadian mail flyer.

Major James E. Fitzmaurice was at the airdrome this morning, expecting to see the Ford hop off. He expressed keen regret over the illness of the airmen.

Branch Library Opened Friday

Large Number Of Patrons Visit South Side Branch First Day

SOME 1,500 VOLUMES ALREADY ON SHELVES

For the benefit of the people of New Castle who live on the south side, a branch of the New Castle public library was opened Friday afternoon with Miss Alice M. Sterling, librarian, and Miss Helen Minick, children's librarian, in charge.

Although Friday was registration day scores of the people of the south side, including a large number of adults, visited the branch, and all were pleased by the work which was going on. Books will be distributed Tuesday for the first time.

Members of the board of directors of the library also attended the opening. Mrs. Rebecca Royce, secretary of the library board, expressed herself as being especially pleased with the branch.

Two Rooms.

Located at 1209½ South Mill street, the branch is in a most desirable location, being handy to the Pollock school, the Lincoln-Garfield school and the St. Vitus school. It occupies a second floor apartment above Morgans' Gift shop.

Of two rooms, the branch, aside from the usual library furniture, has in each room nine ranges of books of five tiers to the range. One of the rooms houses the children's collection, while the other is for adults. Aside from this, there are cabinets for supplies. Flowers and ferns to decorate the rooms for the opening day were sent to the branch by citizens who have the interest of the library movement at heart. On the shelves in the two rooms there are approximately 1,500 volumes.

Many posters decorate the rooms, all through the efforts of Miss Helen Minick, children's librarian, and her staff of assistants. "The library belongs to you," one claims. "You use it. You support it. Do your best to make it grow." Another poster, designed by Miss Sterling, asks the residents of the south side what books they want for their library and asks them to write the names of the books on a special piece of paper.

Glynn Morgan, a south side merchant, was the first person to fill out a card in the new branch.

"The growth of the south side branch of the library will depend upon the use that the citizens make of it," states Miss Sterling. "It is supported by the city taxes, and by using it you get what you are paying for. You are, therefore, asked to make constant use of the library.

"The library is for grown people as well as children. The branch will be open every Tuesday and Friday from 12:30 to 9 o'clock."

Pyle's Runners Given No Cordial Reception In Missouri Town

DILKS CONTINUES HIS STEADY PROGRESS

By LELAND C. LEWIS,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MILLER, Mo., April 21.—C. C. (Cross Country) Pyle's caravan of callouses buffed up their mud-spattered road toggery and moved eastward from here to their forty-ninth control at Springfield, thirty-five miles from here today.

In Drizzling Rain

Andrew Payne, Claremore, Okla., took things easy through 46.7 miles of drizzling rain of the treak from Joplin, finishing in a tie for fourth place with Olli Wanttinen, New York, and one-armed Roy McMurty, of Newhall, California. Payne's elapsed time of 302:27:44 gives him a thirty-six minute lead over Peter Gavuzzi, of England, who was second into Miller. The total mileage from Los Angeles was 1,808.3.

John Gober, Moberly, Missouri, for the second consecutive day led the Pyle pack. His time for the day was 6:55:43.

Nature, with its downpour, did not discomfort the caravan half so much as did the town of Carthage, omitted from the roster of nightly controls, when Pyle was unable to agree with their local committe on the financial terms.

Unusual Reception

Gavuzzi was leading the pack as they neared Carthage. He had not cleared the city limits when a car darted near him and the driver shouted: "We don't want you foreigners on our roads. Clear out or we'll run you down."

A short time later caravan cars passing through the town were pelted with a barrage of overripe eggs. The hurlers of the barnyard product ac-

Nationwide Famine Threatened; Bulgaria Scene Of General Chaos Today

(International News Service)

LONDON, April 21.—Hundreds are believed dead, half a million persons are homeless and Bulgaria is faced today with a nationwide famine following a new series of earthquakes, according to Vienna dispatches to the Daily Express.

Philoppopolis, where 15 were killed Wednesday night when the city was partially destroyed, is now completely devastated. Five villages also have been wiped out by the new series of shocks.

City of 100,000

Philippopolis was a city with a population of about 100,000 people and boasted many fine residences. Today every building in the city was a mass of ruins, 120 bodies have been recovered from the debris.

The earthquakes have completely disrupted communications throughout the country. It has been impossible, therefore, to estimate the number of victims in the villages of Manoliv, Katunica, Karafilovo, Slatovo and Scovelevo, which were also completely wiped out.

The quakes are described as the most terrible in the history of Europe. The entire country is panic-stricken.

Thousands, scared and nearly crazed with fear, are wandering about the countryside dazedly. Many go about shrieking that the end of the world has come.

Marooned Fliers Anxiously Await Plane Repairing

Captain Koehl And Baron Huenefeld Disappointed At Delay To Relief Plane

Atlantic Fliers Stranded On Icy Shores Of Labrador Hope To Hop Off Tuesday

(Copyright, 1928, by International News Service.)

GREENELY ISLAND, April 21.—(By airplane to Seven Islands, Que., and Murray Bay, and by land wire to New York.)—Baron von Huenefeld and Capt. Herman Koehl were deeply disappointed today over the reported delay of the tri-motored Ford monoplane with replacement parts for the Bremen. They had hoped that the plane with Bernt Balchen and Floyd Bennett might arrive this afternoon so that repairs could be started this evening.

The relief plane will bring the propeller of the sister Junkers ship F-13, landing gear and fuel. Also, it will carry a large kit of tools as facilities here are limited.

Cold and Windy.

The weather here is cold and windy, but the baron and Capt. Koehl were hopeful that it would not grow any worse so that the relief plane can get through tomorrow. According to tentative plans the repairs will be made Monday and, if the weather permits, the Bremen will hop off on Tuesday morning. That this plan can be carried out to the letter, however, is not at all certain.

The spectacular landing of the Bremen, after it had cruised for hours over the desolate and uninhabited mountains and forest of Labrador, was the biggest event that ever happened here and the inhabitants will hate to see the flyers go. Capt. Le Templier, keeper of the lighthouse, Mrs. Le Templier and other residents of the community have made the airmen comfortable, but there is no diversion except skating and tramping over the wastes on snow shoes.

Kindness Praised.

"We shall always remember the kindness of these people," said Baron von Huenefeld. "They gave us a

Believe Inmates Of Cambria County Home Drank Poisoned Liquor

(International News Service)

EBENSBURG, Pa., April 21.—Three inmates of the Cambria County Home here died early today shortly after attaches found them, writhing in pain, in the cobbler's shop at the home.

The three were believed to have died as a result of drinking poisoned liquor, following a report of officials at the home that several bottles of a dark-colored liquid were found in a barn nearby. An examination of the contents of the bottles will be made today, officials said.

The dead were John Butrick, 42; John Simon, 19, and John Condir, 35, a veteran of the Austrian army during the World War.

A report of the deaths was made to the county coroner, who it was expected would launch an investigation.

LONDON, April 21.—Capt. George H. Wilkins, Australian aviator, has flown over North Pole and across the "top of the world", according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen this afternoon quoting two radiograms received and published by the newspaper Politiken.

Both radiograms were from Svalbard (Spitzbergen), where, they stated, Wilkins landed today.

According to these messages Wilkins and his companions flew from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Doedmansoeria, an uninhabited island in the Arctic, where they were detained for five days by bad weather. After being able to continue they flew to Svalbord.

Mob Of 250 Women And Few Men Attempt To Prevent Miners From Working

(International News Service)

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., April 21.—A mob of 250 women and a few men which gathered at the Shadyside Coal Company's Mullton Hollow mine, near Bridgeport, early today, was dispersed when deputy sheriffs threw two tear gas bombs into the crowd, according to reports received here this morning.

The mob was made up almost entirely of women, reports say, and they attempted to prevent workers from entering the Mutton Hollow mine. The mine is being operated, under union sanction, with the Jacksonville scale as a wage basis. Many persons in the vicinity, however, are in sympathy with the "save the union" movement whose leader, John Brophy of Pennsylvania, asserts that miners should not return to work until all operators have agreed to the Jacksonville scale.

Bessemer Takes Lead In Contest

Gets 3-2 Decision From Plaingrove In First Of Two Contests

In a contest between Plaingrove and Bessemer literary teams held at Bessemer last night, Plaingrove won the essay and declamation, while Bessemer won the oration and debate, thus scoring two points for Plaingrove and three for Bessemer.

In the debate Bessemer had the negative side of the question, Resolved: That voting should be compulsory in the states.

Another contest will be held at Plaingrove one week from last night at which Plaingrove will take the negative side of the same question in the debate. It is expected that at the close of this contest the tie between Bessemer and Plaingrove in the recent literary contests will have been determined.

The judges last night were Dr. Charles A. Dawson, instructor in English at Westminster college; Supt. Floyd Atwell of Beaver and Miss Helen Maxwell of the New Castle High school.

There will be a new set of judges at the contests to be held at Plaingrove. They will be selected by County Superintendent of Schools, John C. Syling.

him three months for contempt, and his action in hiring the Burns detective agency to spy on the jury that sat in the first Teapot Dome conspiracy trial last October got him another six months for criminal contempt. Last October's trial ended in a mistrial when the court learned of the jury surveillance.

Sinclair Pleased.

As the verdict was rendered Judge Wright, defense conusel, reached up and hugged Sinclair, while Martin Littleton and George Hoover, his other two attorneys, grasped his hand.

Mrs. Sinclair and Sinclair's mother had waited for the verdict in the corridor. When the news was broken to them Mrs. Sinclair broke down and sobbed violently on the shoulder of her mother.

Sinclair left the court room to join his wife and mother.

They embraced, and with the two women, still crying, walked out of the court.

"I am not surprised but I am very happy," said Sinclair. He plans to leave immediately for New York.

Frank Hogan, attorney who brought the acquittal of E. L. Doheny on similar charges, was one of the first to congratulate Sinclair.

Others of his friends in the court gathered around him and he held an impromptu reception.

Just before the jury came in, Justice Jennings Bailey announced that he would not countenance any demonstration, promising to punish any one who attempted one.

He warned the newspapermen that no one could leave his seat until court had been adjourned.

Immediately after the foreman of the jury had rendered his verdict, Judge Wright rose and asked the defendant be dismissed.

Justice Bailey looked down at Prosecutor Roberts and, hearing no objection granted the motion.

warm and friendly welcome and helped us in every possible way. They gave us comforts when we were cold and hungry and aided us in pulling the plane out of the ice in the island lake."

Careful examination of the plane has failed to show any weakness from the long flight against violent headwinds and the severe landing, when the plane plowed its way through the ice in the island lake.

It had been feared that some of the vital parts might have been strained by the sharp bump when the giant plane struck the ice and smashed through, breaking the landing wheels.

Baron von Huenefeld said that his satisfaction over making the first westbound flight over the Atlantic has been increased by the difficulties he and his two companions had to surmount. While it has currently been reported that the baron was the financial backer of the enterprise, the nobleman himself revealed that he had only a small sum of money when the preparations for the flight were started.

Took Off Secretly.

Public opinion was against the flight because of the numerous tragedies which had attended previous efforts to span the Atlantic from the east to west. It was this opposition—both official and private—which led the flyers to hop off at Baldonnel airdrome, Ireland, instead of Tempelhofer field, Berlin. The airmen left Tempelhofer field secretly early in the morning when they flew to Ireland to begin the trans-ocean jump.

"We owe much to the courage and skill of Major James E. Fitzmaurice and Capt. Herman Koehl," said the baron, "but we must pay homage also to the machine. In my opinion the Junkers plane is the best that has been perfected to date. Also, I believe that Capt. Koehl is the best flyer and the best air navigator in existence. Your Col. Lindbergh is a wonder airman—cool, daring, resourceful and skillful, but he did not have the difficulties that Capt. Koehl encountered. Koehl was a former captain in the German air force. He is a knight of the order of merit, the highest war decoration in Germany."

The children of the community have found the bluff, good natured Koehl a fine "pal". Even the dogs have taken to him and he was photographed holding a puppy in each arm.

Endorsement Is Given Mr. Rentz

Beaver Falls Tribune Announces Support Of New Castle Publisher

Editorially, The News-Tribune of Beaver Falls, the leading paper in Beaver county, has the following to say in its columns concerning the election of district delegates to the Republican national convention at Kansas City in June, who are to be elected at the primaries on Tuesday:

DELEGATES TO THE NATIONAL CONVENTION

The Republican voters of the 26th district, which comprises Beaver, Lawrence and Butler counties, will on next Tuesday vote for two delegates to the national convention.

Inasmuch as Beaver county has the congressman, it was the feeling among those interested in the welfare of the party in the district that the delegates should come from the other two counties.

The two candidates agreed upon by many prominent Republicans were Fred L. Rentz, the well-known New Castle newspaper publisher, and William E. McClung of Butler County. Both of these men are outstanding citizens of their respective communities and would, we believe, most ably and conscientiously represent the district at the convention.

While neither one has made any declaration as to the candidate he favors for the nomination, The News-Tribune feels confident that they will support the man who is favored by the majority of the voters of this district.

The News-Tribune is very strongly for Herbert Hoover for President, not only because it believes he is far the most able man in the party, but because he is the choice of the rank and file of the Republicans, not only in this state, but throughout the district.

Rentz is known to be a Hoover supporter and it is our feeling that voters of this district would do well to support him. McClung is the only candidate from Butler county, and it should be represented by choosing him as the other delegate.

Baseball Pool Tickets Nabbed In Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 21.—Police today found 5,000 baseball pool tickets in a suitcase cerried by Paul Sutlisse, 29, of Butler, Pa., which he has explained contained only clothing. Arrested, Sutlisse refused to give police any information and was held for investigation.

Police believe Sutlisse was to have delivered the tickets to a local agent of a pool which pays $1,500 for first prize. The arrest was the first made in connection with operation of baseball pools this year, police said.

Since the baseball season has opened again another sign of summer has shown up. Friday afternoon on West Long avenue Pa Newc observed the first straw hat of the season a brand new one with a blue band.

One often wonders if the same rules which apply to automobiles are also legal in the case of bicycles. Last evening an old lady was almost run down when she was getting off a street car at Laurel avenue. The party of the second part didn't stop for he was on a bicycle and a special providence must surely protect him.

With both the Cathedral and senior high schools in use last night the Lincoln avenue district looked like one continuous parking area. Side streets in all directions were also in use as auto parking sites.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT

LAST MINUTE RUMORS

One of the favorite methods of the political trickster is to circulate last minute rumors concerning a candidate, in an attempt to break down his support. The day is gone, I believe, when New Castle people can be influenced by such methods and I have every confidence that should such methods be resorted to, the citizens of this city will pay no heed.

Briefly, the primary on Tuesday next, for the Republican nomination for General Assembly sums itself up into this proposition.

The citizens of New Castle are to hire a Representative in the General Assembly. It has been their custom to return such a representative for a second term, for a first termer cannot escape from the fact that he is an apprentice.

In the Session of 1927 I served my first term. I am now asking for the second term. It is my sincere belief that my experience in the Session of 1927 will be valuable in returning service to this district, should I be renominated and elected.

My name is first on the ballot. Will you help to keep it first?

KEEPING PRISONERS BUSY

EXPERIMENTS in the way of making federal prisoners self-supporting give promise of success. Men confined in penal institutions prefer activity to idleness, and it is not surprising that prisoners should manifest a desire, when once started in a productive industry, to excel their own accomplishments as they become more expert.

It is a result of this inborn desire, which produces "champions" in every line of endeavor, that the production of cotton duck in the Atlanta penitentiary is constantly growing in volume. Prisoners in that institution take pride in beating their former production records.

While the object of the prison factories at Atlanta is to produce a sufficient quantity of coarser cotton materials for the needs of the federal government, Leavenworth is striving to increase its production of shoes to supply the demands of the Indian service and all federal prisons. In the course of a month this shoe factory increased its output 40 per cent without materially increasing its working force.

Prison factories, if properly operated, can perform a twofold service without working any appreciable hardship upon free labor. They aid in the rehabilitation of fallen men and women by teaching them how to work and how to earn an honest living. Prisons cannot reform those it schools in the demoralizing habit of idleness. Moreover, it has been demonstrated that prisons can be made self-supporting through utilization of their inmates in useful production.

RADIO MUSIC FOR SCHOOLS

BEGINNING next fall Walter Damrosch, for 24 years conductor of the New York Symphony orchestra, will broadcast two series of concerts, twelve each for elementary schools and high schools respectively, during school hours.

Each concert will be preceded by a brief explanation of the music, its character and the various instruments. It is believed that nearly 15,000,000 children will hear these programs.

Here is a splendid project. It suggests other possibilities for the future.

A radio receiving outfit will probably become an important part of the equipment of school auditoriums. As the educational advantages of radio are realized more and finer programs will be planned for school children.

MONOPOLIES

NOW that the price of crude rubber has gone down to about half the cost of production, East India growers who rejoiced in a government-backed monopoly find their monopolistic profits wiped out.

The loss is not merely transient. They find also vast rubber plantations being developed in Africa, Brazil and the Philippines, which in the future will hold down the profits they might have enjoyed without any monopoly if they had not forced this defensive competition.

It is coming to be an old story, so quickly is the lesson learned in one industry. Will other industries take this lesson to heart? Will Brazil drop its export restrictions on coffee, and Cuba its artificial control of sugar production? If they do not, sooner or later the monopolistic coffee and sugar planters will find themselves in the plight of the rubber planters.

Backed by American millions looking for profitable investment, the law of supply and demand still operates.

NEIGHBORLY TRADE

OUR trade relations with Canada are closer and more profitable than with any other country. The Chicago Tribune would like to see those relations closer still. Its idea is to have the states and the dominion one great sphere of trade, as free from artificial restrictions as trade is within the borders of our own country.

There is no serious obstacle, argues the Tribune. "Canada lives as America does. Its economic and social standards are so similar to ours that lowering or removing the protective tariff would have little or no effect on the standard of life in this country. And any competition it created would be more than made up for by that complementary factor in the tariff—freedom of trade within the zone of protection. The North American area of free trade would then extend from Alaska clear to the Rio Grande; and that, as we see it, would be an economic condition greatly to be desired by both countries."

Canada feels rather complimented by the suggestion. The Toronto Globe remarks that free trade between the two countries would not mean the absorption of Canada into the United States, and "a friendly attitude toward Canada's exports would probably help to strengthen the ties of friendship between the two countries."

Nevertheless there is little likelihood of the suggestion being acted on. Canada had her chance at trade reciprocity, when it was offered in Taft's administration, and turned it down so hard that the offer is not likely to be repeated soon.

The average man, as he goes along in life, accumulates more disposition than money.

Hogs are produced on three-fourths of the farms of the United States and in all of its cities.

One trouble with most drivers is that they think too lightly of the ounce of prevention.

Such exaggerated stories are told! The truth is, thousands in Chicago haven't been shot at.

He sees the good in everyone,
Their faults he never mentions;
He has a lot of confidence
In people's good intentions.

A Changing World.

The three fliers, two German, one Irish, will stick together and fly on to New York together. Fitzmaurice had no idea of accepting a welcome ahead of the others.

Baron von Huenefeld, who financed the Bremen trip, says that part of the time, flying through fog, he wrote poetry, and part of the time wondered what was going to happen.

Von Huenefeld has been nominated for the German parliament and national pride will probably elect him in spite of his friendly attitude toward the ex-Kaiser.

Worthy of your polite attention is Mr. Toichiro Araki from Tokio. He jumped out of an airplane on Long Island at 12 minutes to five yesterday morning on his way in a race around the world for the Japanese newspaper Jiji Shimpo.

Mr. Araki, by airplane, automobile, fast trains and boats, expects to go around the world in 34 days. When Jules Verne suggested a trip in 80 days that was thought preposterous.

Adolph S. Ochs, owner of the New York Times, celebrates his 50th year as a newspaper publisher. That publisher career, begun in Chattanooga 50 years ago, has agreed with Mr. Ochs. Friends that recently saw him climbing hills on the Pacific coast observed no change in him in the last 20 years. May he continue publishing 50 years more and then go to live in Pasadena permanently.

The Lutheran church received 5,000 suggestions in a national contest for an advertising slogan suited to the teachings of that church. The judges adopted this:

"A Changeless Christ for a Changeing world."

Fortunately the changing world changes its ideas of Christ and his teachings. It no longer burns witches in His name or tortures those that choose to think as they please religiously.

When Protestants in Switzerland burned Dr. Servetus alive, on a slow fire, mocking his appeals for a speedier death, they thought they were pleasing Christ. They were mistaken.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina opposes the nomination of Governor Smith and the first Democratic fight of the 1928 campaign is under way, with the odds in Governor Smith's favor. He is playing golf, not noticing the fight.

King George won his first race of the season yesterday, the Brandon Handicap. The king's horse, Scuttle, by Captain Cuttle, out of Stained Glass, carried a good deal of loyal British money bet upon him.

If Heeney beats Tunney in the coming fight, Dempsey will return and fight Heeney. If Dempsey wins, perhaps Jeffries and Willard will return and fight him.

But Heeney probably won't beat Tunney. Even in prize-fighting thinking counts. Tunney is the better thinker and, besides, Tunney's defeat would be unprofitable for the prize-fight "insiders".

Charley Birger, Illinois gang leader and killer, hanged yesterday, told Rabbi Mazur he had twice tried to kill himself since his conviction. Birger hired another killer to work for him, "paying $50 for each shot that entered the body of the man picked for death." The gangster's efforts to kill himself may have been due to fear that he would be unable to keep his nerve facing the hangman.

There are old maids in Turkey for the first time since Mohammed, recognizing man's weakness, allowed him a few more wives than one.

Living has gone up 2,000 per cent since before the war. Polygamy has been abolished. Turkish women wear European clothing, no more long veil and dress lasting a lifetime.

You are warned that heart disease is increasing rapidly in America. Bootleg whisky has something to do with it. The stupid habit of lashing a tired heart by drinking cocktails on an empty stomach has much to do with it. Gambling helps, and the fast pace of life in general.

New York City is opening a "parents' exposition". It ought to be useful. A most depressing parents' exposition is the modern collection of cocktail drinking young girls, with cigaret-stained fingers, and flask-carrying brothers.

SMALL TOWNS.

It is discovered that 80 per cent of the men whose names appear in a list of prominent citizens in Chicago were born in small towns. The same will be found true in almost every large city. There is greater likelihood of the development of individuality in small towns. People born and spending their early years in large cities seem to grow up to be more alike—more of a certain type—than folks who grow up in little places off and we tend to become like marbles in a bag.

Dr. Crane's Editorial

EXTRAVAGANT FUNERALS

We have often wanted to say something about extravagant funerals, but have hesitated to do so because it is a rather tender subject with most people. It is a matter of sentiment and a very strong sentiment, at times.

But the advisory committee on Burial Survey the other day at New York, after a two-year study of the burial industry, made a report on the basis of which something perhaps might be said without offending anybody.

According to this report, funeral directors are somewhat guilty because of the expensive merchandise and elaborate funerals which they have cajoled the bereft into paying for.

"But culpable as the industry is," says the report, "part of the responsibility for increased costs must be laid at the door of the public which by a demand for elaborate funerals has run up the cost of a burial." Their study clearly indicates that expensive funerals entail most suffering and are most acute in families of limited means who have minor children to support.

What's the good of an expensive funeral, anyhow?

Of course we feel that nothing is too good to show our respect for the departed and we are not inclined to be small and economical in doing them honor. But surely the dead person does not care how much we lavish on his burial. Is not expensive display at a funeral rather to please ourselves than to do honor to the dead?

Death is the universal democracy and when it comes all men are equal. Building expensive monuments and mausoleums in a grave yard is of questionable taste.

Why should there be rivalry and display among the dead? They surely have gone to some place where such things are not appreciated.

The best thing we can do with our property, if we leave any after we are dead, is to care properly for the living, and whatever money we leave should be devoted to those whom we leave behind.

Curiously enough, the report of this committee shows that the lowest average burial expense is among the orthodox Jews, while the highest is among the Irish. And, speaking of localities, the cities of the North and East are the most extravagant, while those of the South are lowest.

The committee suggests that pastors probate courts, insurance companies, civic and social welfare agencies should aid in keeping down funeral costs and this should be with the co-operation of the burial industry itself.

Let us not be parsimonious in doing honor to the dead, but, on the other hand, let us not mistake our own vanity for respect for the departed.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

SENATORIAL PRIVILEGE

The members of the United States Senate have sadly degenerated since the passage of the Constitutional Amendment electing them by the direct vote of the electors of the several states of the Union. No set of school boys ever threw mud with more glee than do these supposedly "grave and reverend seniors". Their behavior has become a national scandal. A New York newspaper speaking of it has this to say:

"What, if any, are the limits of Senatorial privilege? Is it competent for a Senator of the United States, speaking from his place on the floor, to besmirch any name prominent in American public life at his own sweet will? Surely Senatorial privilege should connote senatorial responsibility? Names like those of Charles E. Hughes, Franklin K. Lane or Governor Smith of New York have been dragged into the oil discussion with complete recklessness and without a shadow of evidence against men held in honor by their fellow countrymen.

"In Kipling's 'Jungle Book', it is mentioned that the jackal is both despised and feared by the other jungle folk. At times he develops a peculiarly virulent form of hydrophobia and when that madness is upon him he bites indiscriminately and with fatal effect. What political jackal has bitten these Senators even if some of them have not lost their sense of decency, to say nothing of that chivalry which forbears to hit a man who cannot hit back?"

"When a single Senator starts to build up a personal reputation on the investigation of a scandal he may meet with considerable success. There have been instances of that both in and out of the Senate. But when a score of Senators are all shouting at once, each anxious to say something startling about the Teapot Dome Scandal the effect is to make confusion worse confounded. Senatorial privilege can never have created the right to slander individuals, much less to prejudice a case pending before a court of justice, to say nothing of the court of public opinion."

"What are the limits? What protection has the man who has risen to prominence through unselfish service to his country? Is there no redress, no apology? The law holds that there can be no wrong without redress. Is the United States Senate an exception to a rule which is part of the code of civilized peoples everywhere? Violence begets violence, especially where an abuse of privilege has infringed the common rights of citizenship. Remove the Senatorial toga, place this jabbering Bander Log in the open marketplace within reach of the constable's club or the indignant citizen's horsewhip and calculate the net value of this rush of honesty to unaccustomed heads."

"What has become of Senator Walsh and his investigating committee? Can Senators be in contempt of each other of the chairman of one of their committees, if witnesses can be held and punished in that connection? Is it contempt of the Senate to say that its proceedings insult public intelligence and self respect?"

C. B. D. CHARLES B. DRISCOLL

NOTICE WILMINGTON

Recently I heard something about the city of Wilmington, Delaware, that caused that place to assume new importance in my estimation.

Someone was telling me of a public school exposition that was held in one of the large public buildings in Wilmington. Exhibits in cases and on tables occupied a very long hall or arcade. The public was invited to visit the exhibits at all times, but particularly at hours when the schools were not in session, for then there were public school pupils to explain and demonstrate the exhibits.

Now, the feature of the exhibition, as it was described to me, that seemed significant, was this. The work of the children of the schools was directly related to the world in which these children live and will live after finishing school.

When one of the young demonstrators had collected an audience before his exhibit, he would proceed to tell about it.

You must know that Wilmington is greatly interested in the Dupont enterprises, including powder, dynamite and fabrics. The Wilmington school system is intelligent enough to realize that there is always present and active, right at hand, a vast fund of educational information in connection with these industries. So the Wilmington children, demonstrating the educational system by which they are being trained, show the Wilmington adults how powder is made, what it is used for, and how dynamite serves American civilization. The youngsters display the processes whereby interesting and useful fabrics are made of wood pulp and cotton, and explain how these processes affect the daily lives of persons in Wilmington, Manila, Singapore and San Francisco.

This is what I mean by intelligent schooling. When I went to school in a Kansas rural schoolhouse, we tried to learn all about how Stonewall Jackson got his name, what kind of pikes the Roman soldiers used in England, and the names of all the lakes in Africa. Not once did any teacher think it worth her while to tell us anything about the blue jays that were singing outside the door, the gophers that were drilling holes through the alfalfa patches, nor the romantic story of wheat and corn. We had those things to learn for ourselves, and to learn erroneously, for the greater part.

The children of Wilmington are being educated. That is to say, their minds are being led out to view and know the world about them.

There are many other cities in North America in which young folk are being trained according to intelligent standards. But I point out Wilmington, simply as a good example. I would be glad to learn about other cities that are doing sensible educational work.

Highland Pupils Present Operetta

Clever Program Is Given On Friday Evening At Senior High

AUDITORIUM IS FILLED FOR PLAY

Pupils of the Highland school scored a distinct dramatic triumph last night when they presented the operetta entitled "Aunt Drusilla's Garden" at the senior high school before an estimated audience of 1,100 persons.

Members of the cast had been rehearsing for some time to make the show a fine success and this they did. From the very first word spoken until the last word of the grand finale had been repeated, the youthful actors displayed a talent that could not be equalled anywhere.

Theme of Playlet.

The scene of the playlet is in Aunt Drusilla and Aunt Prudence Roger's garden. Nelda, Jean Gardner, an orphan niece of the two aunts, who has been living in the city tenements for some time is brought to live with Aunt Drusilla and Aunt Prudence. After her arrival at her new home, the garden there suffers greatly from the escapades of the gang of boys in the vicinity who despise the two aunts However, Aunt Drusilla forgives the boys for their pranks after they save her home from burning down one day. At the lawn party that is held as a reward for the boys' deed it is announced that Nelda will soon be taken from the home of her two aunts and placed in a fine school all because her rich uncle has placed his wealth at Nelda's and her aged widowed mother's command.

Clever Acting.

Jane Bechtol played the part of Aunt Drusilla with remarkable ability while Aunt Prudence's part was cleverely depicted by Lois Chambers.

Pat, in real life Billie Shiras, acted as gardner for the two aunts and found much trouble in keeping the flowers and lawn looking nice before the members of the gang became friends of his employers.

Bob, the "roudy" leader of the gang and whose part was enacted by William Hart, feared no one and was held in high position by his youthful followers.

The acting was intermingled with musical songs which were greatly enjoyed. Thase of "Fishin,'" "The Fire Brigade" and the "Submarine" struck the fancy of the audience and received hearty encores.

The operetta provided great entertainment for the evening and was enjoyed immensely. Teachers of the Highland school who directed the play and all others who had a part in making the show the success that it was are deserving of high praise. Miss Pearl Hutchinson was in charge of the dramatics; Miss Helen Allen, the music and Miss Eva Smith the dances. Miss Jackson directed the work of costuming the children.

Music for the evening was provided by the Notth street junior high school orchestra with Miss Anna Patterson a student of the senior high school as accompanist.

County Veteran Observes His Birthday Anniversary; Recalls Experiences In War

SAMUEL BAKER, COMPANY C, 101ST REGIMENT.

Samuel Baker, Wampum R. D. 1, Shenango township, member of Company C, 101st regiment, who recently celebrated his 81st birthday anniversary enlisted at the age of 17 at New Brighton, Pa. On January 1, 1864, he went to Plymouth, N. C. .At this place he took part in his first battle. It began in April, 1864 and lasted three days and three nights. There were 1,700 Confederates and 2,200 Union soldiers in this battle.

Mr. Baker was taken prisoner there along with his father Jas. Baker and sent to Andersonville prison. They were there eight months. His father took sick and Mr. Baker nursed his father in this sickness and was sitting by his side when he died, August 17, 1864. Mr. Baker was then transferred from Andersonville prison to Florence prison and was paroled December 6, 1864 and came home on a furlough. He was home 30 days, then returned to Newburn, N. C. From there he went to Roanoke Island and then to Washington, D. C.

After being in camp at the National Capitol for 60 days he was sent to Baltimore, Md., and from there to Delaware Bay. He fought under Captain D. W. Freeman and General McClelland and was at Appomattox Court House when Lee surrendered to Grant. Mr. Baker was discharged at Harrisburg in July 1865.

While in Andersonville prison Mr. Baker saw his comrades shot for crossing the dead line. Some of the prisoners just put their hands over the dead line and were shot dead. There were 140 guards on the top of the stockade all the time. It was made of trees 15 feet long, four in the ground and the balance above the ground. The inside enclosure was 30 acres in extent at the time Mr. Baker was there. The prisoners at that time numbered about 20,000. While he was in the prison 13,000 died and six of his own comrades were hung for robbing and killing their own comrades. They would rob, kill and bury them under their tents and for that crime they were given a court trial and when found guilty sentenced to death by hanging. This was all done inside the stockade.

Many slept on the ground without any roof over them and with a blanket around them. There was the dead line between the Confederates and the water. They would famish for water although there was plenty of it and they could not get it. They prayed to God for water and he sent them a spring in answer to their prayers. He was in Florence prison 1864 when having no ballots the prisoners cast their votes with beans. A white bean was used for Lincoln and a black bean for McClelland.

Mr. Baker cast his first vote at the age of 18 years and has voted at every election since that time. He is now 81 years of age. He enlisted with the Union army in the 101st regiment, Company C. Mr. Baker has always been a Republican.

Mr. Baker is enjoying excellent health for one of his age. He was born April 11, 1847.

ments for husbands. Listen to the sixth commandment and take heed.

"Thou shalt not forget the birthdays of thy wife and children and thy wedding day as ceftainly as thou dost the anniversary of thy lodge or the opening day of the baseball season."

The courtesy of remembrance has a great deal to do with the maintenance of happiness.

A CALLING.

It has been said that preaching is a poor business but a great calling. A business has to do with earning a living. A calling has to do with living a life. That is true with professions other than the ministry. There is much tendency these days toward vocational schools in order that young people may more quickly be provided with the capacity for earning a living. Let's not forget preparation for living a life.

COST OF NEGLIGENCE.

Small things we give little attention to cost us millions. Black smoke it is estimated costs the city of St. Louis $15,000,000 a year. The price in soiled clothing, curtains windows and painting alone amounts to huge figures. And yet scientific means can be had for the abolition of most of the smoke.

We permit ourselves to be imposed on by our own spirit of negligence and our lack of attention.

Just Folks

THE COMMON LOT

Give me the fellowship of men and the love of a woman true,
And a bed of flowers for my idle hours
and a morning task to do.
And I'll ask no more
Till my time is o'er,
No more from the lavish years,
For the rich must sigh
And the great must die
And all eyes fill with tears.

Oh, here I am in a world of men
where laughter sometimes rings,
Where the strong and weak life's pleasures seek and the comforts
fortune brings,
But we eat and sleep
And we laugh and weep;
Go home when the day is o'er;
And though some find fame,
Life is still the same,
For the great can do no more.

So keep me strong for the task I pray
and grant me a friend or two;
Give me a wife who will share my life
and follow its fortunes through.
Let me keep the right
And sleep at night,
Let a few flowers mark my door,
And I'll live content
Till my time is spent,
For the great can do no more.

PRAY—

Not for an easy time, but for strength equal to your tasks.

Not for smooth roads, but for steady convictions.

Not for smooth seas, but for safe boats.

Not for success, but for the ability to be at your best.

Not for lighter loads, but for a song to sing as you carry them.

Not for happiness, but for the courage to be true to your convictions.

Not for popularity, but for a character worthy of public trust.

High ideals are always commended. In selecting a home site it is now made clearly advisable to get on the upper side of a big dam.—Washington Evening Star.

For Representative in the General Assembly in the Second District of Lawrence County, Let Every Voter of the Second District, Lawrence County, Vote For a Man Who Is

WHOSE

INFLUENCE IN THE LEGISLATURE IS ALREADY ESTABLISHED

WHO IS

CAPABLE AND COMPETENT

AND

KNOWS THE NEEDS OF THIS DISTRICT AND LEGISLATIVE PROCESS

HE IS

EXPERIENCED

TESTED AND TRIED. WHY HIRE AN APPRENTICE?

THIS MEANS THAT A MAN WITH EXPERIENCE CAN GET MORE FOR Their Home Districts Than Beginners. It Would Be Advantageous to the People of the Second District to Have a Representative With Influence in the State Legislature.

1—Milton A. Bickett has faithfully attended to his duties as a member.
2—The office is important and should not be looked upon as just a thing to be passed around. He is the hired man of this District.
3—He is experienced. If you were hiring a man and have the choice either of an experienced man or one without experience, which one would you hire?
4—Influence in the Legislature Increases with Length of Service. He has influence now and would have more next session.
5—He has heretofore effectually used his influence towards getting additional roads in Lawrence County. And his friends believed he would continue to secure more roads for Lawrence County.
6—Mr. or Mrs. Voter REMEMBER THIS: THE DISTRICTS WHICH ALWAYS HAVE AND ALWAYS WILL GET THE MOST FROM THE STATE ARE THE DISTRICTS WHICH KEEP THE SAME REPRESENTATIVE IN OFFICE FOR SEVERAL TERMS.

This Local Man Offering Praise For New Konjola

Says That This Medicine Relieved Him Of Kidney And Stomach Suffering.

MR. NEWTON A. GREEN
Seavy Photo

Konjola has already been a blessing to hundreds of people in New Castle and nearby towns. It has made men and women, in all walks of life, happy with the knowledge that life for them will no longer be one gloomy day after the other, suffering terrible miseries, but has given them the joy of living, by banishing the common ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

One report after the other is being received by the Konjola Man at the Love and Megown drug store, 204 East Washington street, this city, from sufferers who have already been relieved of their health troubles. For instance, Mr. Newton A. Green, 307 Fern street, New Castle, made the following statement:

"I am entirely relieved of the terrible miseries of stomach and kidney trouble since I have completed a treatment of Konjola", said Mr. Green. "It was the first medicine to help me and I feel that such a remedy should be indorsed to the public.

"For a long time I have been in a completely rundown condition and although I tried all kinds of medicine I never could find one that would give me any relief. I suffered almost all the day from lumbago and it was almost impossible for me to do my work because of the severe pains. But the worst trouble was with my stomach which caused me misery after every meal. Large quantities of gas formed after I ate the least bit of food. I was told this was brought on by constipation and even the strongest laxatives failed to help me. During the night I would have to rise several times because of weak kidneys and all day I had awful headaches that were due to a sluggish liver. I was steadily losing in weight and felt bad all the time.

"I noticed a number of testimonials of others that Konjola was recommended by many local people for such disorders as mine and I finally made up my mind to give this medicine a trial. The first two bottles gave me more relief than all the medicine I had taken. The new feelings of health that came over me surprised me and I didn't know what to make of it. The pains in my back from lumbago disappeared and I could do my work without suffering the least bit. As I continued with the treatment my stomach got better until finally I was able to eat anything that I wanted without the least bad result afterward. Konjola regulated my bowels and gave me free movement every day. My kidneys are stronger and I never have to get up during the night, and all the liver trouble is gone. Konjola has helped me in every way and I am feeling better than I have in many years.

"My wife also has been helped by this medicine and we both think it is a blessing to our home. We recommend it every chance we get.

The Konjola Man is at the Love and Megown drug store, 204 East Washington street, New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.

Ask Ministers To Speak Of Needs Of Clean-up Week

Clean-up Week Activities Start Tomorrow With Special Activities For Each Day

According to annual custom the week beginning Sunday April 22 has been designated by the State Department of Health, Welfare, Forests and Waters and the Bureau of Fire Protection, State Police, as Clean-up Week. Ministers have been asked by the state to refer to Clean-Up Week on Sunday indicating to their congregations the objects and results to be obtained by its observance.

Dr. Howard C. Harper, county medical director speaking for the State Health Department states that health departments have in the past done, and are now doing a tremendous job to prevent illness among the general population. Modern sanitation, scientific hygene and communicable disease control have reduced the sick and death hazards tremendously. However there comes a point where public health officials must stop and the individual must begin. Each person must realize his own obligation to prevent illness.

Clean-Up Week gives individuals a special opportunity to act says Dr. Harper.. Unsanitary surroundings and illness are close companions. Flies thrive on filth. The season is here for this enemy of infant and child life to make its appearance. Back yards that are unclean and careless invites the fly in great numbers. And it is a short step from the yard to the food which you and your young people consume. He urges to clean-up and eliminate among other things the fly hazard.

The Word of Our God Shall Stand Forever. Heaven and Earth Shall Pass Away, But My Words Shall Not Pass Away. All Scripture is Given by Inspiration of God and is Profitable. How Readest Thou — The Holy Bible?

It is one thing to read the Bible through; another thing to read to learn and do. Some read it as their duty once a week; but no instruction from the Bible seek. Some read to bring themselves into repute; by showing others how they can dispute; while others read because their neighbors do; to see how long 'twill take to read it through. Some read it for the wonders that are there, how David killed a lion and a bear; while others read it with uncommon care; hoping to find some contradiction there! One reads with father's specs upon his head, and sees the things just as his father said. Some read to prove a preadopted creed,—hence understand but little that they read; for every passage in the book they bend; to make it suit that all-important end; Some people read, as I have often thought, to teach the book instead of being taught. So many people in these latter days; have read the Bible in so many ways; that few can tell which system is the best; for every party contradicts the rest! But read it prayerfully, and you will see; although men contradict, God's words agree. For what the early Bible prophets wrote, we find that Christ and His apostles quote: So trust no creed that trembles to recall, what has been penned by one and verified by all: Fear God and give Glory to Him; for the hour of his judgment is come. How the Birds Knew It Was Time to Go to Bed

Quietly, so that he should not disturb the birds, Peter crept up the bank and kneeling down peered through the briars to see who the singer could be.

Perched upon a branch that swayed in the breeze, sat a feathered gentleman dressed in cinnamon brown. The sun shone upon his snow white vest that was dotted with tiny spots, as with heads thrown back and beak wide open he poured forth his evening song.

About him, as still as mice, stood the birds listening with all their might. When he had finished the golden-voiced musician hopped from his perch and in the twinkling of an eye, disappeared into the thicket.

"There, that settles it!" Blackbird nodded decidedly. "Sleep-time is here. Thrush has sung his evening song and has gone home, and it is up to the rest of us to do the same. He has never failed yet to tell us when it is bedtime. After all I suppose it is just as well.

"All the beauty sleep we get now will help us just so much when summer comes. We shall have a busy season then, scratching and catching for the youngsters. Besides, mark my words! It will not be very long now before we shall hear Vesper Sparrow say 'good night'."

"Whew!" The sound came very unexpectedly and at an opening in the thicket behind the little group appeared the face of a tan-colored bird. He poked his head out from the branches and looked about him with such a surprised expression that Peter, watching, almost laughed out loud.

"Whew!" wheezed the little bird from his peep-hole, again. "Is that so! Expect to hear Vesper Sparrow's song soon, do you? Well then, it must be about time for me to sing a lullaby to the babies. Wife would never forgive me if I did not get home to put them to sleep. Whew! I never would have thought it time. It is as light as afternoon out here. I could not see in the thicket. And anyhow I have been taking a nap. Whew!' What a narrow escape."

Back into the thicket popped the funny little face and all the birds chirped merrily as if much amused.

"Veery never will believe a thing until he has found it out for himself," Bob White declared. "He really is a fine fellow, but rather a hard chap to get along with. Every single thing one does he finds fault with. Why, I lived next door to him one season, and you would almost think that I had no right in the tree at all.

"I could hardly fly off my own front porch or come back again without him insisting upon knowing where I was going or where I had been. It was none of his business of course, but I didn't pay any attention to him. I knew he only acted that way not because he really was curious, but because he was so much in love with his wife and so devoted to his babies that he was afraid something would happen to them if he didn't watch out. Besides he has such a lovely voice that I couldn't stay mad at him —no matter how angry he made me —when I heard him sing. Ssh! He is beginning now."

Sure enough, somewhere within the thicket Papa Veery was singing his babies to sleep. So sweet was the lullaby he crooned that Peter, listening to it felt himself feeling drowsy. At last the wee nestlings must have gone to dreamland for the lovely voice sank to a whisper and then was still.

No sooner had the last low note sounded when, like an echo, the song was taken up, but by a different voice. Peter, looking in the direction from which the new came, saw, perched upon the stone wall that bordered the pasture a small bird sitting all alone, and singing as if his life depended upon it.

The little fellow stopped as suddenly as he had begun, and dove down behind the pasture wall. The boy saw him no more.

Much Improvement Made On Airport

Harlansburg Road Airport Is Cleared Of Old Orchard, Erect Wind Direction Indicator

Each day progress is being made on the improvement of the airport on the Harlansburg road so as to make a first rate landing field on the high spot of land known as the Old Hickory Farm.

All the apple trees in the old orchard north west of the barn have been blown or pulled out and are being hauled away by a tractor. When there trees have all been cleared away and the ramaining holes filled up a clear sweep of 2500 feet north and south will be available.

On Friday a wind direction indicator was erected on top of the silo the highest point in the community. This indicator is composed of a white bag resembling a long stocking. It is of light material and so delicately mounted on a pivot that the slightest breeze will fill it and swing it pointing in the direction the wind is blowing. Thus aviators on the ground or in the air about to light can tell which way the breeze is blowing and take off or land accordingly.

The old barn east of the field is also being torn down and hauled away which gives more available space as well improves the appearance of the entrance to the field.

Since the day that Chamberlin landed on the field there has been a fine opportunity for the field to dry and there is a great difference in the appearance of the field. It is likely that any plane could land or take off from any spot on the field at present as the ground is almost thoroughly dried out. And the runways which were ashed have been put in fine shape by much rolling and dragging.

Public Utility Investment Made Easy for Everybody

THAT it is an easy and simple transaction to invest in public utility securities is attested by the fact that men and women in all walks of life buy them every day—just like they buy other common commodities.

There is no mystery about it, no undue formality, no red tape—whether you pay in full or make your purchase on the budget payment plan.

More than 3 million customers have invested in the electric light and power industry. They know that it is a sound, steady, going business. They know it is profitable because they pay their bills regularly and know that every other user must do the same. They know that a fair rate of return on the money they invest in preferred stocks is assured and many make it a practice to regularly set aside a portion of their income for such investment.

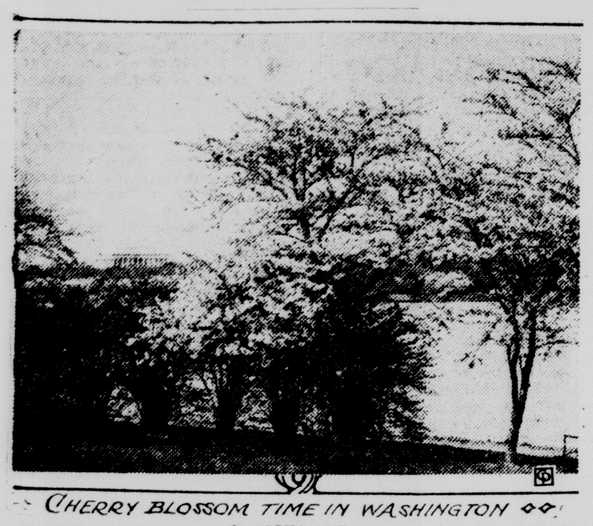
Cherry Blossoms Lure Throngs To Capital



CHERRY BLOSSOM TIME IN WASHINGTON

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington Correspondent for Central Press and New Castle News

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Its cherry blossoms put more tourist-money into Washington pockets than a presidential inauguration does

To be sure, an inauguration brings a bigger one-day crowd to the capital, but that's about as long as it stays. Inauguration's in March and the weather's always beastly. It's only a quadrennial affair, anyway.

Japanese cherry blossom season keeps guests sleeping in hotel bathtubs for two or three weeks every spring.

This is the very midst of the floral exhibition, and it's estimated that the city's entertaining as many as 50,000 visitors a day—and not entertaining them for nothing, by a blame sight.

Not so bad!—for a smallish burg, like Washington. However, this year's a record breaker in the capital's cherry blossom history.

Maybe most folks don't realize that the railroads actually run excursion trains into town to show off those blossoms. They do, and people not only come from all over the country, but time trips from Europe, so's to see 'em.

They're getting to be a world's wonder.

The Japanese embassy says they beat anything the swellest parks in old Nippon have to offer. Not that the trees are any different, but their surroundings are so absolutely perfect! The reflecting pools are what do the business.

Chief Henlock of the horticultural division, public parks office, begins getting queries as early as February: "When will the cherry blossoms be out?"

His first instinct, for quite awhile, was to answer, "How the heck do I know!" It did seem like a silly question to ask, with the snow still on the ground, and the temperature 12 to 15 degrees below zero.

But presently it began to percolate through Henlock's mind what a tremendously popular attraction he was custodian of, and he plunged into a course of meteorological study which has made him the best prognosticator in the District of Columbia on the subject of spring weather averages—insofar as their effect on cherry blossoms is concerned.

Today Henlock doesn't get letters of inquiry alone—he gets telegrams and scores of long distance 'phone calls.

The railroads consult him, and the hotel and restaurant men, and all the tourist agencies, and the rubber-neck bus lines, and a couple of secretaries are kept busy attending to his private Japanese cherry blossom correspondence.

The thing's developed into an important industry.

The first oriental cherry trees received in America were a gift from the emperor of Japan, but unfortunately they were infected by a bad kind of bug and had to be destroyed.

The mayor of Tokyo tried again, with 3,000 trees, in 1910. The second experiment was luckier.

The mayor's trees are the ones growing now. Henlock estimates a cherry tree's life at about 40 years, but by the time these are done for, of course their progeny'll be flourishing. They do well here. The climate agrees with 'em.

They're beautiful trees, but Henlock says they'll never fill many fruit jarsful of cherries. Their mission's to look lovely, not to produce much of anything edible. They "bear" a little, but nothing to write home about. Who cares? —if they bring 1,000,000 interest-bearing tourists to Washington every twelve-month.

DRIVE PILING FOR BUILDING FOUNDATION

Work on the new home of the Shenango Motor company, being erected on West Washington street, is advancing steadily at the present time.

Max Ludwig, head of the motor car concern states that workmen found it necessary to drive foundation piles down to the river bed in order to secure a strong foundation, when work was started on the projects. These piles are being driven at the present time, slackening the work somewhat. Nevertheless, work on the foundation above the surface of the ground will be commenced shortly.

P. H. C. Members Enjoy Session

Number Of Visitors From Other Circles In Attendance Here

Enthusiasm prevailed throughout the entire session held in the chamber of New Castle Circle No. 5, P. H. C., on Thursday night.

An excellent attendance of the membership were present, including representatives from different district circles.

Following the business session the degree staff was showered with applause as they introduced new features in their beautiful drill. Early in May the famous Knickerbocker girls will be the guests of the parent circle at Sharon, where they will assist in demonstrating the exemplified degree to a large class and in June the team will be the guests of the grand convention held at Uniontown where they will initiate a large class.

Supreme Auitor Dr. R. G. Baird and wife of Sharon were circle guests Thursday night, and it was said the Doctor never was heard to better advantage. Always a brilliant speaker R. G. just let the sparks fly upon this occasion.

Then there was Deputy Marie Purdy with her husband and daughter from Freedom, who always add to a meeting. And they just brought Mr. Vandine along too. Van you are all right.

Deputy Mattie Rumble brought a splendid representation from Sharpsville and her remarks were full of natural wit to the finish.

Now of course our own George W. Muse was on the job and sprung some original ideas that brought down the house, and they let George do it. During the evening a delightful program of music was rendered by an excellent orchestra and a social hour rounded out a session of business and pleasure combined.

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENE RUBINSTEIN
Noted Beauty Expert

HAIR GROOMING UP TO DATE

Once upon a time a woman had a comb and she had a brush and she had a mirror, and tucked away in the top drawer of her bureau there was a fat little brown bundle of kid curlers with which she tortured her hair into an exaggerated curl, a curl that rarely escaped plain "frizziness."

That was hair grooming a decade ago, but ten years change minds and habits, characters and customs, and today, milady has a set of military brushes (if she is wise), a magnifying mirror (if she is careful) and a permanent wave.

On her bureau there is always a bottle of tonic, and in her bathroom closet the real secrets of her hair beauty are carefully tucked away.

What are they? First her shampoo, for all beauty depends most upon absolute cleanliness. The modern woman would no more think of rubbing a cake of soap on her hair than she would of washing it with benzine.

And before we go further into the "intricacies" of modern hair grooming, I want to tell you something about washing your hair.

I have given detached instructions on shampooing a short time ago, and it is not my intention to repeat them here, but the few little points which came to my mind, seem to me worth passing on. When you wash your hair, learn to depend on the strength of your fingers more than you do on the quality of the shampoo. If your hands are dirty you scrub them. Soaking, unless it's by the hour, is not going to remove embedded dirt. If it won't work with your hands, why expect it to on your hair? Your scalp needs cleansing just as much as the hair itself does, and surface latherings of soap won't clean your scalp. So after your hair has been wet with warm water, rub your shampoo well into the hair roots, using the tips of your fingers, not the cushioned pads.

Don't be afraid of a little energy. Your scalp is quite sufficiently resistant as it is. All your rubbing won't do anything more than wake it up into healthful animation, and that should be done anyway. It isn't necessary to lather four times. Twice is quite sufficient, but if your hair is very much inclined toward oiliness, three latherings are more effective. You can quickly learn how to manipulate your finger-tips so that the nails won't graze your scalp.

For the woman who likes a soft, loose wave the water wave is excellent, but there must be some tendency toward a natural wave, in the hair, or a water wave will not be successful. You can give yourself a water wave at home, but it's an intricate process and I don't particularly advise an amateur to attempt it.

Since women have learned how to protect against the resultant after dryness, the permanent wave has truly become a blessing. But don't get a permanent wave unless you're prepared to give your hair the extra stimulus of an occasional hot oil shampoo, and regular applications of a good hair tonic, which you may obtain for either dry or oily hair.

Employment Situation Showing Improvement In Pittsburgh District

By GEORGE H. MANNING.
(Washington Correspondent of The News.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. April 21.—The employment situation in New Castle and other industrial cities in the Pittsburgh district, showed marked improvement during March, according to a report of a survey of labor conditions throughout the United States made public by the Department of Labor here today.

Analyzing the situation in what the department terms the Pittsburgh industrial district which includes Butler, New Castle, McKeesport, Homestead, Duquesne, Clairton Braddock, McKees Rocks, Bridgeville, Coraopolis, East Pittsburgh, New Brighton, Monessen, Donora and Woodlawn, it was reported that both employment and production is on the upward trend.

"The iron and steel industry reported a further slight increase in production and employment during March" the department said of the district. "Steel mills were operating at close to 80 per cent of capacity.

"A surplus of labor still exists, though opportunities for employment are increasing.

"A number of steel mills and plants that have been operating part time with reduced forces increased their working schedules and recalled many workers that were laid off during the winter months.

"Employment in steel mills and plants at Homestead, Duquesne, McKeesport and Monessen showed a steady improvement. Plants in the Shenango valley are gradually approaching normal operations and employing additional workers. Tin plate mills, can factories and radiator plants at New Castle increased their operating schedules and recalled a large number of furloughed workers.

"The firing of additional coke ovens in the Connellsville district has further stimulated employment in the coke industry. Operations and employment in the plate glass plants showed a slight improvement. Conditions in the bituminous coal industry showed very little change and a large surplus of mining labor exists.

"Building increased and several large projects are under way and additional work is soon to be started. Unemployment in the building industry is gradually decreasing."

For the state of Pennsylvania as a whole employment showed a "slight but steady increase in several major industries" the report stated.

Production and employment was reported as improved in the iron and steel, automobile accessory and body building industries, metal trades, foundries and machine plants. The report notes, however that there is still a surplus of semi-skilled and unskilled labor as well as clerical help. Railroad shops continued below normal during the month and the textile industry was dull. Employment in the coal mining industry continued below normal.

It was predicted however that with increased activity in building and farming a part at least of the surplus labor will be absorbed.

Foster's Weather Prognostication

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Last half of April was expected to average much better crop weather than first half of month; last week of month best planting weather of month; killing frosts near 19th were expected to move down to or a little south of normal localities for this time of year; the average killing frost near April 20 reaches south to near latitude 37, southern boundary of Kansas, almost to the southern boundary of Missouri, Kentucky and Virginia. No general description can be worded that would describe the average killing frosts of mountain regions, Pacific slope, Great Lakes vicinity and northeast sections; in such localities each spot may differ materially from those adjacent in all directions. A storm wave of mild intensity is expected to cross continent during week centering on 21; a storm wave of mild intensity during week centering on 30; these storms will both occur during periods of above normal temperatures and will not be expected to cause cold periods following storm centers excepting in far north. Precipitation during the passage of these storm centers will be about normal; otherwise, precipitation during last half of April will be below normal. Storm waves centering on 21 and 30 will be expected to stay close to northern trans-continental storm path, but will cause about to a little above normal precipitation in central and eastern cotton belt. During last half of April, all farm work should be advanced as far as possible, every advantage taken of every opportunity, but all work should be thoroughly done under favorable circumstances, as haste will certainly make waste this season. General details of May cropweather will be given in next issue.

Electric-Magnetism

In the labratory, a magnet is built with polarity, field and all potential points decided beforehand. In the building of a universe, the magnetic polies and fields of these immense magnets we call planets and planetary systems are not preordained, but take their places as resulting conditions may demand and are even subject to change. There is every evidence that, before our Earth captured its one moon, the general magnetic field of the Earth was not the same as now; that the Earth's equator was not always located as now, but girdled the Earth near where the Rockies, Andes and Ural mountains now stand. Our Moon, once a comet, when it came to this Earth for a permanent stay, would undoubtedly change the magnetic field of Earth sufficiently to change the direction of rotation of Earth ;such a change would explain many unexplained facts relative to the supposed ice age, finding remains of tropical animals and vegetation in far northern localities, etc. Millions or billions of years in the future, another comet may come to make its home with our Earth; another flood will be added to history, should there be any left who could record; another dragon would be added to Chinese mythology, or the history of any who were left.

Jack Hulme In Charge; College Boy Captures Large Bittern

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, April 21.—Next Saturday has been announced as the date of the local kite-flying contest being staged by Jack Hulme here. In preparation for this big event, most of the "kids" in the town have already started to make their kites and and a few are trying out their ready made entries.

The time of the contest will extend over a period of three or four hours and the winner will be judged on the basis of the kite-flying tournament official rules.

One of the biggest wild birds ever captured in this vicinity was brought in here yesterday by Donald McClure, a Westminster college senior. Walking about a mile south of town Mr. McClure saw the bird, which was later described by Dr. B. E. Quick, head of the Westminster department of biology, as a bittern.

This bittern is about the size of a young chicken and has very long legs and beak. The reason that it was captured was because of the fact that it is suffering from a broken leg.

Again Monday evening the local Rotary club will hold its regular meeting at the Methodist church. It is expected that the business brought up at this meeting will concern the plans of the local club with respect to the Rotary convention that is to be held in New Castle next week.

State Voters Showing Very Little Concern Over Coming Primary

Senator David A. Reed Is Almost Conceded Re-Election To U. S. Senate

Sectional Fights Wax Warm On Many Localities; Public Appears Disinterested

By C. B. YORKE.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, April 21.—While sectional politics bubble and boil the lethargy that has lulled the majority of the state's voters into a stupor of indifference remains practically unbroken with the primary election only three days away.

Such is the opinion of politicians here, for weeks charges and counter charges have been hurled by opposing factions in an effort to arouse interest in Tuesday's election. The voting public, however political leaders report, remains unaroused and almost uninterested.

Politicians in many cases attribute this dearth of interest to the fact that there is little opposition evident among candidates for statewide offices. Sectional fights wax warm in many localities but reports on even these meetings fail to reveal the spirit and zest of a hotly contested campaign.

Reed Conceded Elected.

In the Republican senatorial contest David A. Reed, incumbent, is opposed by William Adams of Harrisburg and William O. Harper, a Philadelphia negro. Political leaders practically concede the victory to Reed although he has not personally made a campaign tour of the state.

Adams is running on a wet platform while the third candidate for the nomination is reported as dry. The Democratic candidate is unopposed.

The most interesting sectional fight appears to be that being waged in the fifteenth district where Mrs. Gifford Pinchot and Louis T. McFadden are battling for the Republican congressional nomination. Charges and counter charges of wet and dry affiliations have craracterized almost every rally but indications are that the vote will be almost as light in this district as it is predicted it will be in other sections of the state.

Very Little Interest.

Selection of delegates to both the Democratic and Republican national conventions has failed to show a normal response of interest among the voters, political leaders report. Indications are that both delegations will go to the national gatherings uninstructed and perhaps unpledged.

Republican State Chairman W. L. Mellon has given no indication as to what camp will receive the strength of Pennsylvania's delegation at the Kansas City convention. Democratic leaders also have voiced no predictions regarding what candidate will be supported at the Houston meeting.

From reports available here it appears that state politics are calm while sectional fights will take the center of the stage when the polls open Tuesday morning.

Letter From Benjamin E. Thompson to the Voters of Lawrence and Beaver Counties

Dear Friends:—

At the earnest solicitation of a large number of my friends I was induced to enter the race to represent you in the Senate at Harrisburg from the 47th district. When I entered the race it was my intention to make an active campaign and so far as possible to interview each of you and at that time ask your support and influence in obtaining this office and the opportunity of serving you. Owing to the fact that I was seized with an attack of La-grippe with sinus trouble following, it has been impossible for me to see you. A fact which I greatly regret. If I had been able to see you I would have made clear my position on any and all the questions that might come up for consideration during my incumberency in office. I would have made it clear to you that no ring of politicians, either statewide or local were behind me; that I was independent of any Corporation which has entered into politics for selfish purposes. I would have called to your mind a natural query as to why any corporation should enter politics unless it had ends to gain other than that which accrue to all corporations alike. I would have made it clear that such Corporation nor its representatives had endorsed me, nor had they been asked to do so. I would not have made a point of being dry in Lawrence County and wet in Beaver County. I would have pointed out to you, as I do now, that I did not have a record of public office behind me stretching over a period of years, which benefited me and my business in ways that were against the public interest. I would not have intimated that my opponent, if he had been seized with an attack of La-grippe, was a sickly person and might be unable to perform the duties of his office, if he were elected to the same. I would not have made impossible and innumerable promises throughout the whole district and such promises as I would have made I would expect implicitly to fulfill. I would have pointed out that my interests were not so much with the State ring, and with one individual corporation, but with all corporations, with labor, and with all the various and diversified groups that make up the district. I would have pointed out that I was not a chronic office seeker, that I was not forever before the public asking some office at its hands. I would have asked you to compare my private life, my business achievements, my sincere efforts for civic and moral uplift with those of my opponent. I am proud of the fraternal, and social religious groups to which I belong and I take this method of asking their support.

Some of the things for which I stand and will sponsor bills, if elected are:—the construction and maintenance by the state of all the bridges on state roads, and all licences for Automobiles to be issued at the county seats in each county.

I claim for myself a clean vigorous mind, a knowledge of the needs of the district, and being unfettered by corporation or political dictation, will be able to represent you in a fearless and efficient manner. I regret sincerely my inability to see each and all of you, at this time, I ask your support and influence at the primaries next Tuesday, April 24th, and I assure you that your support and influence will be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely yours,

Benjamin E. Thompson

Marriage Of Dancer And King's Cousin Finally Announced

Beautiful Titian-Haired American Dancer And Spanish King's Cousin Happy

Love Develops When Young Man Sees Girl Dancer Before King And Queen In Madrid

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 21.—How titian-haired Peggy Tudor danced before the king of Spain and captivated the monarch's handsome young cousin was revealed here Friday when the comely New York actress admitted her marriage to Alfonso De Figueroa Y. Bermejillo.

"My husband's family will be very, very angry to learn that he has married an American girl. And an actress and dancer at that," she said.

Member of a wealthy Madrid family, the young bridegroom is a son of the Duke of Tovar, who is a first cousin to King Alfonso of Spain.

The marriage of Miss Tudor and Bermejillo culminated a romance which had its inception four years ago when they met at a party in New York, and ripened into love when they saw each other again in gay Madrid.

Married in January

"We met again in Spain when I danced twice by request before King Alfonso and Queen Eugenie," Miss Tudor related. "When Alfonso and I decided to marry, he accompanied me back to New York, where we were pestered by reporters who thought we were engaged."

"Well, we were," she confided, "but we decided to come to California by boat and be married quietly."

The wedding ceremony was performed on January 25 at Ontario. The couple are established in a rose-entwined bungalow in a Hollywood garden court. Bermejillo is interested in motion pictures and has been studying their production with the view of returning to Spain next winter to organize his own company.

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News.

NEW YORK, April 21.—I got to thinking about taxi drivers when I heard about Arthur Sutton.

Six weeks' searching for a job driving a taxi gave Arthur the idea that he'd never find one. When, after automatically and spiritlessly going thru the motions of asking one from E. D. Losti, operator of a fleet, he was offered a job, Arthur got excited.

"When do I start?" he asked.

"Right away," said Losti, motioning to a cab.

Sutton walked toward it, then toppled over, dead of heart failure.

Sun-tanned visitors from points west (to a New Yorker, any place beyond Hudson river is west), are in style here. Sunburn is fashionable, because every one wants to give the impression of having spent the winter in Florida or California. Many of the tans one sees in the Fifth avenue parade doubtlessly were acquired in violet-ray parlors that provide a sunburn at $5 a treatment.

One Broadwayite, whose name is synonymous with virility and that sort of thing, takes a violet-ray treatment daily to conceal the pallor he acquires through regular attendance at night clubs.

With four musical comedy hits running in New York, and another collecting dividends on the road, the natural conclusion is that Flo Ziegfeld is piling up a fortune rivaling Henry Ford's. But Ziegfeld doesn't finance his own productions, upon which an average of $200,000 is spent before the first curtain goes up, and only receives a salary and a share of the profits. A. L. Erlanger, theatre owner, used to be the "angel" of the Ziegfeld productions. Now W. R. Hearst, the publisher, is.

Harry Bruno and Richard Blythe, press agents deluxe to Lindbergh and concerns with an aggregate capital of $100,000,000, are two small-town boys who have made good in New York in a big way. Bruno, 35, is from Montclair, N. J. Blythe, about the same age, is from Edmonton, Ala. Both were newspapermen and war flyers. Previously Blythe followed Pancho Villa in Mexico. After the war they teamed, and opened for business as public relations counsel with a rented typewriter and $1.38.

Blythe and Bruno are joint authors of a book, "The Modern Torchbearers," which gives the lie to the common assertion that newspapers give predominating space to crime and scandal news. An analysis they made of what constitutes the daily news died of most Americans, as reflected by the columns of 60 representative newspapers, shows that only two per cent of newspaper space is devoted to what is classified as police, crime and scandal news. Sports news and pictures get six per cent of space, political and governmental, two per cent; comic strips, three per cent; editorial comment, exactly one-half of the space given to comics; advertising, 48 per cent; syndicated text features, 11½ per cent. Other straight news classifications fill the rest of the space.

Among the organizations which will appear in the Public School Musical Exhibition and Concert in the Franklin Junior High School on Friday evening of next week is the Senior High School Chorus. They will sing, The "Millers Wooing" by Eaton Faning and "Good Night Beloved" by Pinsuti. The instructors feel that the Senior High School Students do not show the interest in the chorus work which it deserves. In order to encourage greater interest in this particular school activity, it is probable that the chorus will be sent to Grove City to participate in the contest to be held there on Thursday, May 3.

The members of the chorus are:

Jane Allen, Mary Cooper, Lillian Campbell, Hazel Campbell, Elsie Gould, Orpha Dittman, Alice Huffman, Mildred Hart, Jean Hattman, Grace Hickock, Alberta Horchler, Miriam Harris, Rita Hites, Margaret Fazzone, Katherine Babariez, Katherine Mehard.

CHARACTER

Sad words; and yet they represent the rating of those people whose word is never kept. Their promises are entirely devoid of a semblance of respect.

In the world of business credit, the person with a "Risky, Doubtful, No Dependence" credit rating seldom has the courtesy of a charge account. Why? Simply because they did not keep their promises to pay.

The files of the New Castle Credit Exchange tells as plainly as a picture the record you have made. It is a character picture or an abstract of your life.

Have you paid all bills promptly? If not, now is the time to start with a determination that in the future all your ratings will read prompt pay.

President Is Irritated Over "Draft Coolidge" Move In New England

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 21.—President Coolidge is becoming irritated over the tactics of some of the leaders of the "draft Coolidge" movement.

This was the construction put by political leaders here today upon Mr. Coolidge's latest disclaimer that he is a receptive candidate for the nomination.

In a letter to Francis Prescott, chairman of the Republican state committee of Massachusetts, the president said:

"Report has come to me that some persons in Massachusetts are proposing to write in my name as a candidate for president at the primaries on April 24. Such action would be most embarrassing to me, and, while appreciating the compliment that is intended, I request that it not be done. My name is being used in other states in a way that is contrary to my wishes. I have heard that in New York it has gone as far as to be claimed such use is with my tacit consent.

"In my own state to give any countenance to such a movement would tend to compromise me and lend color to the misrepresentations that are apparently being made in other states. I am, there, sending you this public declaration of my position and requesting that such attempts be discontinued."

BOY SCOUT Activities

The Boy Scout troop 5 held the weekly meeting in the basement of the Elks home Thursday evening. The meeting was called to order at 7:30 o'clock in charge of Scoutmaster R. F. Davis, assisted by Walter Kerr, assistant scoutmaster. Two committeemen were present, Sol Davis and J. Garfield Davis.

Before the meeting was called to order sides were picked for a game of tug-a-war. The side led by Alfred Howard won by putting the other side all over the mark.

The meeting was taken up by passing tests and making plans for the Scout Jamboree. Alfred Howard was appointed the patrol leader of the Elks Jamboree Patrol.

The patrol contest ended at this meeting with the Flying Eagle Patrol, led by Harry Brown, the winner. This patrol had 1960 points. The Silver Fox Patrol came in second with 1204 points, the Beaver Patrol, third, with 763 points, and the Elks Patrol, fourth, with 745 points.

The meeting closed with the usual ceremonies.

Scribe—Alfred Howard.

LEADERSHIP SCHOOL

Monday evening, April 23, in the Carnegie Auditorium another session of the Leaders Training School, under the auspices of the Lawrence County Council, Boy Scouts of America, will be held.

The school now has over fifty students and quite a number of candidates. It is expected that the number will soon be one hundred.

All those who attended last week expressed their appreciation of what is being done and showed enthusiasm and interest in the discussions and subjects taken up. They accepted with great pleasure the announcement that not all of the meetings would be indoors as several others have also been planned. This particular phase of the work is of special interest to those who enjoy such subjects as woodlore, nature study, and camping.

Any new candidates who wish to become members of this great school are requested to report at the Carnegie Auditorium Monday evening at which time they will be registered and their work will begin. School officials will be present at that time also.

Believe Murder Tale Explained

Prisoner's Story Of Hall-Mills Murder Is Believed To Be Fiction

EL RENO, Okla., April 21.—County officials here believed today they had found an explanation of the "confession" made by Elwin Allen to the Halls-Mills murders in New Jersey and said they were convinced the prisoner, who is held on a burglary charge, had no connection with the slayings.

A deputy sheriff recalled that Allen recently had a book, "Unsolved Mysteries," in his cell.

Investigation showed the book contains an account of the mysterious killing of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, a member of his choir. The officers previously had been unable to account for Allen's apparent intimate knowledge of the crime and its locale.

In confessing the murders the officers said Allen apparently was seeking to escape return to the Oklahoma penitentiary where he has served one sentence.

NORTH POLE FLIGHT COMPLETED, SAYS RADIO MESSAGE

members of the party were well and that the plane was in excellent condition.

Last Word on April 4

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21.—Friends of Captain George Wilkins and his pilot, Ben Eielson, heard with joy and surprise today news of the successful flight made over the "top of the world".

Wilkins, who outfitted his expedition here, was last heard from at Point Barrow, Alaska, on April 4. His portable radio set kept him in constant communication with San Francisco up until that time. He was also in constant communication with the government radio station at Seward Alaska.

On that date Wilkins apparently dismantled his beach sending station and placed his radio set aboard his plane. Stations were advised to watch for his signals during his flight.

As days went by and no word came from the plane, considerable anxiety was manifested.

On April 10 E. R. Stevens, Seattle amateur radio operator, reported he was certain he had heard the signals of the Wilkins short wave set. He deduced from the manner in which the signals sounded that they were coming from a plane in motion.

These signals, however, were not heard at Seward, Alaska, where a constant watch was kept on the Wilkins wave length.

Flight Confirmed

BURBANK, Cal., April 21.—Confirmation of the successful flight of Captain George H. Wilkins over the North Pole was received in a radiogram here today from the Arctic flyer and addressed to Allan H. Loughead, vice president of the Loughead Aircraft Company, builders of the Vega plane which made the 2,200-mile flight. The message was sent from Svalboard (Spitzbergen).

The radiogram read:

"Completed trip in 20 1-2 hours of flying. Made one stop five days account bad weather. Machine handled load splendidly. Congratulations to Keeler, Loughead, Northrop, Bondf, Jay Stadlman and boys in shop.

(Signed) "Wilkins and Eielson."

The message was received here at 9:25 a. m. today.

The names contained in the flier's words of congratulation to the builders of the ship are those of officials of the airfract company.

Eielson is the pilot of the plane.

Senators Score Sinclair Verdict

Fail To See How Jury Could Possibly Find Sinclair To Be Not Guilty

HARD TO CONVICT MONEY, IS OPINION

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 21. — The Sinclair acquital verdict surprised the senators who have been instrumental in unearthing the oil scandals.

Senator Nye (R) of North Dakota, chairman of the Teapot Dome committee said:

"Here is more evidence that it is quite impossible to convict a million dollars in the country of ours. By the eternal Gods!"

Senator Walsh (D) of Montana sat silently as he was informed of the verdict.

A few minutes later, Walsh said:

"I didn't see how he could escape."

"Sinclair's acquittal means you can't convict a hundred million dollars under our system of jurisprudence," said Senator Norris (R) of Nebraska, insurgent leader. "Everybody knows he was guilty. The supreme court declared the whole transaction was fraudulent. Sinclair did not testify and he didn't even deny the charges. His acquittal proves that if you have enough money, you can escape anything."

Senator Blaine (R) of Wisconsin, blamed the government prosecutors—Atlee Pomerene and Owne J. Roberts—for Sinclair's acquittal.

"The lack of zeal on the part of the prosecution accounts for his acquittal," said Blane.

Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, said:

"I will have to re-read the decision of the supreme court." (Which held there was fraud in the Teapot Dome deal).

Senator Brookhart (R) of Iowa, another insurgent, said:

"The jury's verdict doesn't change my opinion of Sinclair's guilt."

"New Castle is in a strategetic spot for a new air plane hangar factory" said Mr. Peairs in commenting on the communication.

Find Negligence Cause Of Blast In Film Studio

(International News Service)

DENVER, April 21.—"The most flagrant cases of criminals negligence I have ever seen" was what District Attorney Joel E. Stone said today of the disastrous explosion and fire at the Alexander Film Co., near here yesterday that took eight lives and caused $20,000 property loss.

One man is in immediate danger at the Denver General hospital and several others among the 13 more or less burned are in a serious condition. Four of the dead are women and one is a small boy.

Investigation started by authorities immediately after the explosion partially revealed that a spark from an electric ventilation fan motor that dropped into an open pan of highly explosive solution caused the catastrophe.

Officials of Arapahoe county declared the Alexander company obeyed none of their warnings to make the plant more safe from fire hazard. Insurance on the factory was cancelled five days before the fire because an investigator of an insurance company declared the building was a "fire trap," police said.

Would Authorize Naval Escort For Bodies Of Dead

Severe Criticism Aroused Over Failure Of Navy To Escort S-4 Dead

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The tragic sinking of the Submarine S-4 has again exerted a powerful influence on congressional legislation.

The House Naval Affairs committee today reported for passage a bill authorizing the secretary of the navy to furnish an escort for every dead officer or enlisted man.

The bill, sponsored by Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers, Republican congresswoman of Massachusetts, was a direct outgrowth of the failure of the Navy department to send escorts with the bodies of the officers and men who died in the submarine.

Wide-spread criticism was aroused, and it was not stilled by the navy's explanation that it lacked authority in law to spend money for this purpose.

The new bill was urged by Secretary Wilbur. It will cost the navy and marine corps about $17,000 a year, he said.

The first legislation growing out of the S-4 sinking was a bill raising the pay of submarine officers and men.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

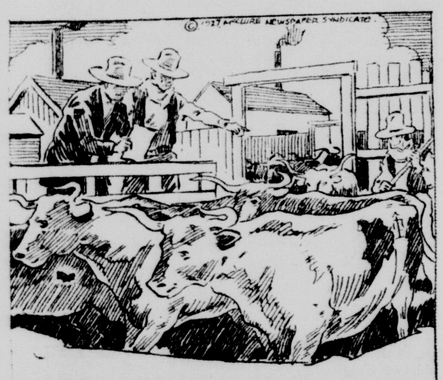
The Story Of The "Cow Country"—Part X

WHEN HIS STEERS WERE READY FOR THE MARKET, THE OLDTIME TEXAS CATTLEMAN DROVE THEM TO THE RAILWAY IN KANSAS, WHERE THEY WERE PUT ABOARD A TRAIN AND SHIPPED TO THE STOCKYARDS OF CHICAGO AND KANSAS CITY.

COWBOYS KNOWN AS "BULL NURSES" WERE DETAILED TO MAKE THE TRIP TO LOOK AFTER THE CATTLE IN TRANSIT. AT POINTS ALONG THE WAY, THE TRAIN WAS SIDETRACKED, AND THE STEERS DRIVEN OUT OF THE CARS AND EXERCISED TO INSURE THEIR REACHING THEIR DESTINATION IN GOOD SHAPE.



ARRIVING AT THE STOCKYARDS OF THE CITY, THE COWBOYS DELIVERED THE CATTLE TO THE BUYER, AFTER THE STEERS HAD BEEN INSPECTED AS TO THEIR CONDITION AND THE BRANDS THEY BORE.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF REFRIGERATION FOR RAILWAY CARS INCREASED THE DEMAND FOR WESTERN BEEF. THE RANCHERS HAD BEEN IMPORTING FOREIGN CATTLE TO IMPROVE THE BREED OF THEIR STOCK, AND IN TIME HERDS OF FAT, SLEEK SHORTHORNS AND HEREFORDS TOOK THE PLACE OF THE UNGAINLY LONGHORN ON THE PLAINS.

Believe Joie Ray Can Win Marathon At Olympic Games

A. A. U. Officials Have Praise For Veteran Runner In Boston Marathon Effort

Ray May Suffer Same Fate As That Of Hannes Kolehaminen, Finnish Runner

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

NEW YORK, April 21.—Will Joie Ray, in committing to posterity the final chapter of his competitive life, follow the spike-etched climax achieved by Hannes Kolehaminen, that great runner of the preceding generation? To answer the question in the affirmative, Ray will have to win the marathon at the Olympic games and Secretary Dan Ferris and other A. A. U. officials, returning from the scene of the Boston marathon, today not only felt that he could but that he very well might.

"Most of us expected Joie to beat De Mar after he had got out of the hills in good condition and was less than 150 yards back with two miles to go," Ferris declared. "It is very possible that, with his superior speed and finishing on the flat, Ray would have done so. There is no question in my mind that the poor condition of his feet prevented Ray from turning in a sensational performance. Except in this respect, he was as fresh as any man in the race."

Ferris and the rest of them still were under the spell of Ray's epic effort. Few spectacles have been more dramatic than was Joie's struggle to the finish, his unseeing eyes blurred with pain, his lips blackened, his feet an agony of blisters, thus, the penalty of playing another man's game, a concession that so many of us have to make to the advancing years.

It was not so less than a half dozen years ago. Then Joie Ray was one of the great mile runners of the world and those who raced him played his game and none other. He was an autocrat in his own particular domain and he won his races with a half-smile of contempt for those who would say him nay. Ray was the pampered thoroughbred then; now, in order to merit consideration, he must bow his head to the yoke and pull doggedly with the work horses, the percherons of sport.

Likened To Man O' War.

A day's plowing would bow Man O'War silken tendons. It is not surprising that the fact the feet which once trod velvet rebelled at cobbles after twenty four miles and so sent their owner reeling with pain to the finish, in third place where he might have won.

"He looked like a man trying to run on eggs," was Ferris' comment on the spectacle.

It is not of record that Kolehaminen suffered the same experience when he made the transition from runner to plugger. It is probable that he did, for the Finn was as finely attuned a bit of running machinery as ever Ray could have hoped to be.

The war served to prevent Kolehaminen from creating an Olympic record probably as great as Nurmi's. The former, in fact, was greater at Stockholm in 1912 than Nurmi was at Antwerp in 1920 and it was necessary for Paavo to do all he did at Paris in 1924 to replace Kolehaminen altogether in the esteem of his countrymen. What Koley might have accomplished in 1916, if the war hadn't intervened, is a matter for speculation only.

Four years later, his speed was gone and he did what Ray is attempting to do today. He joined the "suicide brigade," made up of hardy souls who find the first thirty miles the hardest, and in the Olympic marathon at Antwerp, he beat them at their own game. Accepting his Boston debut at face value, no one can say that Joie Ray won't be able to repeat Koley's performance when and if he gets to Amsterdam.

Dilks Reports On Condition

Says In Letter That He Has About Recovered Old-Time Form

"SHIN SPLINTS" IS COMMON COMPLAINT

That Earl Lin Dilks, New Castle's lone entry in the C. C. Pyle Cross-Country Derby race has been taking things easy in the long trek due to a common ailment among runners known as "Shin Splints" is contained in a letter written to J. Garfield Davis, chairman of the Dilks Booster committee here.

Dilks has about recovered from the ailment and is again running at a 5-mile gait.

Following is the letter:

Tulsa Okla., April 16, 1928.

J. Garfield Davis.
Dilks Booster Organization,
New Castle Penna.

Dear Sir:—

I am again resorting to the typewriter as this is my only means of giving you any of the details. Many thanks for your telegram received today, have just finished a 41-mile day in 8½ hours, and am at the Mayo hotel in this city.

A bath, refit of shoes and socks and dinner occupied a couple of hours and so I am at the moment in bed and about to go to sleep. All is going splendidly and at last I am beginning to get back to work. For the past two weeks I have been obliged to travel very carefully indeed owing to an inflammation called "Shin-Splints." My only hope of recovery and Mr. Newton agreed entirely with me was to travel at an easy walk until the inflammation had subsided. You will be pleased to learn that the cure is almost complete and I am returning to a five-mile an hour gait which will improve as the "Shin-Splints" wear off.

While I am at it I might mention that my correspondence must of necessity be irregular as the typist is as busy a man as I am and is not always available but as you are aware I will do my utmost to keep you informed of the news. I have now employed a good masseur to help remove the last of the "splints."

My health is all that could be desired and my comforts are ample and assured, thanks to the good citizens of New Castle. Nearly every runner has suffered from " Shin-Splints."

Ever yours sincerely,
EARL LIN DILKS.

Cardinals Hand Pirates Defeat

Grimes Blows Up In Seventh Frame And Cardinals Again Gain Victory, 6-2

GRANTHAM HITS ANOTHER HOMER

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 21.—Burleigh Grimes, late of the New York Giants and now wearing the raiment of the Pirates, essayed to stop the mad rush of the St. Louis Cardinals at Forbes field yesterday afternoon, but Grimes was buffeted from the mound in the seventh inning and the Cards again upset the Corsairs, this time 6 to 2.

For six innings the game was airtight with both teams up on their toes but suddenly in the seventh frame something snapped and Grimes was soon on his way to the showers and young Erwin Brame was trotted to the knoll.

The batting honors of the day went to Holm of the Cardinals with a perfect average, five hits in five times at bat, and to George Grantham with a home run and double. Incidentally Grantham had the only extra-base hits of the game.

Jess Haines was on the mound for the visitors and although touched for 11 hits kept them scattered. The Cards collected 16 hits.

An altercation between Manager Bill McKechnie and Donnie Bush was averted by cooler heads during the game.

A hunter reports that a big, bull-like creature he shot in India turned out to be a guar. This puts to rest early rumors that it might have been Luis Firpo.

The guar is a big ox with no intelligence and flat horns. The horns distinguish it from the people who like to pay $40 for 40-cent fight seats.

The guar is a hard animal to shoot. Bullets bound off him like arguments off an umpire. The only way to see a live one is from the inside of a tank.

The hunter interviewed the guar with a rifle. He would like to have carried on the conversation with a machine gun and ended the talk with a Chicago pineapple or "bomb".

A clash between those babies sounds like a covey of Baldwin locomotives during a breathing exercise. A gaur can outsnort a heavyweight wrestler, but the only place it gets him is a glass case in a big town sawdust circus or museum.

SORDS POINTS—By Jack Sords

Just Two World Series Swats Made Home Run Baker Famous

Mr. J. Franklin Baker, formerly of the Philadelphia Athletics, was just about the luckiest man who ever happened in baseball. He was born just in time.

It was J. Franklin who, by dint of busting two home runs in the historic world series of 1911, won the title of "Home Run" Baker, the homer "king."

Today J. Franklin's two swats would be considered a trifling effort. Two home run, indeed! The bat-cracking efforts of such behemoths as Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Rogers Hornsby, Ken Williams and Cy Williams make that brace of four-base bingoes look like a dirty deuce in a brand new pack.

But in 1911 it was great stuff. Before the war which made the world, and the American baseball fan in particular, eager to hear big noises, homers were as scarce as Scotchmen in a $10-a-chip poker game. The pitchers had the upper hand. Runs were made by base stealing and the correct placing of short base hits and not by the blasting away of the outfield fence with super swats.

However, don't get the idea that this boy Baker couldn't hit, because he could. He was in a good measure responsible for quite a few ball games won by Connie Mack when that gentleman was rolling up his wins early in the 'teens.

He cracked eight circuit smacks, 10 three-baggers and 23 doubles in the season of 1924 when Connie won his last pennant for Philadelphia. Baker hit .319 that year.

Though he was a great factor in aiding Mack in winning the 1910 and 1913 world series and the pennant in 1914, it was Baker's bat work in the classic of 1911 that made him really famous.

In the series against the New York Giants he hit (besides the two homers) two doubles and a total of nine safeties in 24 times at bat for an average of .375.

With the rise of the great kings of clout after the war the veteran Baker still held his own against the youngsters. Having gone to the Yankees after the great Athletic machine of 1914 was broken up, Baker aided in bringing that team up to the point where it went over in 1921 and won its first pennant.

There is no telling just what Baker would do with the bat if he were still a youngster and active today. Certainly he would be up there among the high and mighty names of present day maulers.

Baker was born at Trappe, Md., March 13, 1886. He was a fine looking player, being six feet tall and weighing around 175 pounds. He started with Reading, Pa., in the old Tri-State league in 1908. Mack picked him for the Athletics that fall and the rookie made good from the start.

Baker was the first man to hit a ball over the fence of the then new Shibe park in Philadelphia. In his first year in the big time Frank hit .307 and fielded .920. He batted left-handed but threw with his right.

College Squad Battles Weather Conditions; Prepare For Season

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., April 21.—With but three weeks in which to prepare for the opening meet with Allegheny College, the Westminster track and field aspirants are busily engaged in daily outdoor drills.

Dressed in heavy sweat outfits, the men have braved the cold and rain which have persisted during the last month and have had workouts every day despite the weather. Now with but three weeks remaining in which to get into shape the tracksters are hoping for warmer weather.

In the initial trial runs, which have been used to stress form and condition rather than speed, Orvil Mirtz, Byers King, Wilson Botsford and Edwin Anderson have shown ability.

William Crowell, Durward Aker, Adrian Dible, Howard Kelly, William Allen and Louis Peresenyi have been making good time in the quarter and half-mile runs to date.

On the hurdles and jumps Ken Delahunty, Sam Stewart, Walter Hutchison, William Hartwell, Deitrich Cordes and Jack Lewis have been trying for form, but all have exhibited some ability.

In the century and the 220-yard runs Captain William Hartwell, Deane Osborne, Kenneth Homer, Louis Peresenyi and Ken Delahunty give indications of considerable strength.

In the weight events, the weakest part of the United Presbyterian outfit, a large group of men are working out daily. From the improvement made by the men during the first three weeks of outdoor work it is thought that even in these events Westminster will be able to garner a few points.

Henry and Robert Bucher, hammer throwers and shot-putters; McMeekin, Crowell, McComb and Hutchison, javelin men; Crowell, Hutchison, Kelly, H. Bucker and Stewart on the discus, and Stewart, Peresenyi, Dombrowski, Sweet and Maxwell on the shot, give the Blue and White team plenty of beef to handle the weights.

During the last week a number of men have been kept out of practice because of colds. It is hoped that by next Monday the entire strength will be available so that a concerted drive can be made to get into trim for the Allegheny invasion here May 5.

The guar looks a great deal like a gayal, another wild ox. In fact, they are relatives, but not friends. Whenever they meet a new war has started.

Harry Wilson ends a great intercollegiate career when the Army meets Navy in a ball game, June 2.

On that date Wilson, as a member of the Army lacrosse team, will bring to an end his seven-year career of stardom at Penn State college and the United States military acadmeny at West Point, N. Y.

Incidentally that lacrosse game may be the last athletic meeting for some time between the Army and Navy, as the two schools will automatically severe relations July 1, as result of the squabble last fall over suing men of more than three seasons collegiate experience.

Wilson's name is one of the greatest in gridiron records. At Penn State and the Army he was one of the greatest football players of his time.

Dempsey's Marriage Caused Kearns To Be On "Outs" With Jack

Attorney Pictures Beautiful Movie Actress Cause Of Rift In Relations

Jack Dempsey Sits Stoically In Court And Hears Wife Accused

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 21.—The fly in the ointment that salved the friendship between Jack Dempsey and Jack Kearns was pictured Friday as the beauteous Estelle Taylor, movie actress and wife of the former heavyweight champion.

The Jacks were like the famous mythological Damon and Pythias before the coming of Miss Taylor, Arthur N. Sager, counsel for Kearns, declared in opening the latter's $701,026 breach of contract suit against Dempsey before Federal Judge John C. Knox.

As Sager spoke to the jury and the judge, Jack Dempsey sat stoically beside Tex Rickard, the fight promoter.

Kearns had known Dempsey since 1917 and they were good friends until Dempsey became engaged to Miss Taylor, said Attorney Sager. "After they were married they came to New York and then toured Europe. When they came back Kearns met them and they had their first open fight.

Sold Properties

"At that time Kearns and Dempsey owned a corporation which held the Barbara Hotel and the Wilshire Apartments in Los Angeles. They decided to divide these properties.

The attorney said that although Kearns felt that Dempsey had got the best of the deal, he is reported to have said:

"One hundred thousand dollars will never stand between me and Jack Dempsey."

Sager declared that when Dempsey fought Firpo he got "$470,000 or $475,000 for his five or six minutes of fighting." He said he placed $200,000 of this in a trust fund for himself and gave Kearns $50,000.

Athletics Top Yankees, 2 To 1

Ty Cobb And Tris Speaker Aid Macks In Fine Victory Over Yankees

RIXEY THROTTLES CHICAGO CUBS

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, April 21.—Thanks to Daddy Tris Speaker and Grandpa Ty Cobb, the Philadelphia Athletics at last have broken into the winning column and Connie Mack is again full of optimism. Cobb's triple and Spoke's sacrifice fly in the ninth gave the A's a 2 to 1 triumph over the New York Yankees yesterday.

Connie Mack's Athletics picked the home inaugural for their first victory of the season, and a crowd of 50,000 was there. The losing pitcher was Cy Moore, who with George Pipgras opposed Lefty Grove. Each team got only five hits.

Another old timer who jumped into the spotlight was Eppa Jepth Rixey, the elderly Concinnati southpaw. Ep held the slugging Cubs to four hits and blanked them 6 to 1.

Flaming youth's contribution was made by Paul Easterling, Detroit's sensational rookie from Seattle. He clouted his third home run in three days as the fast-stepping Tigers whitewashed the slipping St. Louis Browns, 3 to 0. McManus also hit for the circuit. Whitehill held the Brownies to four singles, while the Bengals got only five hits off Ogden and Wright.

Goslin Hits Homer

Each of the three leaders in the American league, Cleveland, New York and Washington, lost yesterday. Al Thomas, who has accounted for two of Chicago's three victories, pitched the White Sox to an 11 to 1 triumph over Cleveland. The Red Sox nosed out Washington, 6 to 5, despite Goslin's third homer of the season.

Pittsburgh has lost four straight to St. Louis. The Cardinals pasted Burleigh Grimes to a pulp and trimmed the Bucs by a 6 to 2 score. Roscoe Holm collected five hits in five times at bat. George Grantham, who is leading the league's hitters with the juicy average of .600, contributed his second homer in two days.

Del Bissonette, slugging Brooklyn recruit, drove in four runs as the Robins took an 8 to 6 slugfest from the Phillies. Harvey Hendrick, ex-outfielder and first baseman, played another bang-up game at third base for the Brooklyns.

The Giants and Braves were not scheduled.

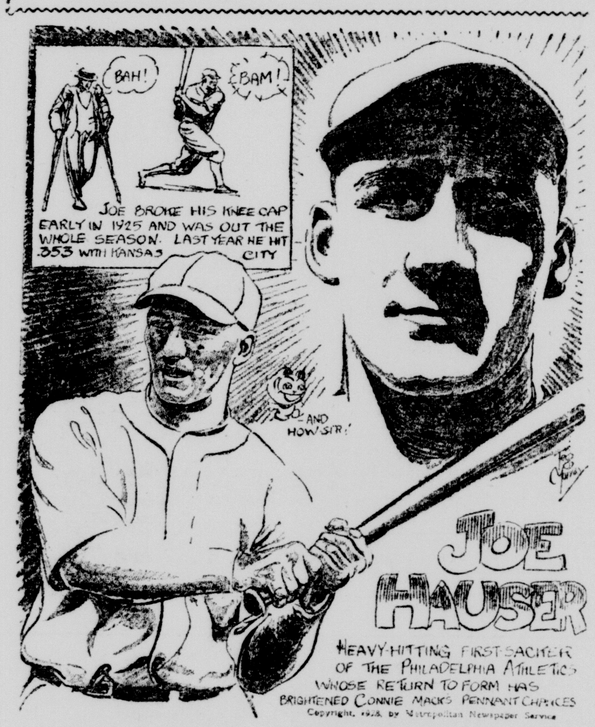
"Milwaukee Joe" By Feg Murray



SPORT MURRAY FEATURE

While the slowness of the feet and the weakness of the arm of aged Ty Cobb must cause the venerable Cornelius McGillicuddy no end of worry as the season gets under way, the return to life of Joe Hauser has brightened up the wrinkled manager's pennant chances immeasurably. Joe Hauser, as all baseball fans will no doubt remember, was on Connie Mack's brightest stars back in 1922, '23, and '24. His batting average for those three years was .306, and he proved himself most valuable on defense.

Then, just before the 1925 season opened, Hauser broke his knee cap and was forced to remain idle all year. He had trouble coming back in 1926, hitting only .192 in 91 games, so Mack farmed him out to Kansas City where he had a fine year, batting .353, getting 49 doubles, 22 triples, 20 homers, and stealing 25 bases. "Hm!" thought old Connie, as he regarded Hauser's '27 record. 'Joe's knee cap seems to be about O. K. now. Guess I can use him again at first next season."

So Joe got his old job back again, and in the spring training season belted out many a steaming hit that delighted his elongated boss. On Friday, April 13, in a game with the Yanks at Philadelphia, Joe got two rousing homers and a triple out of four time at bat. It looks as if Hauser has come back to stay!

Feg Murray Says—

When Charles "Trader Hornsby" Stoneham made the deal that sent the "Rajah" to Boston, he didn't know at least 476,325 sports writers, columnists, and cartoonists, would rush into print after the opening game with remarks about the horn, or nose, of Hornsby's substitute, "Ice Cream" Cohen.

QUALITY AT LOW COST

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Staff Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.

Ken Williams, veteran American league outfielder and slugger, who moved from the St. Louis Browns to the Boston Red Sox over the winter, has done his share for the last ten years to make life miserable for pitchers.

Now Ken, with the milk of human kindness bubbling over in him, as it would in any player recently escaped from the Browns, hands out a helpful bit of advice to the pitchers at large by telling them right out in the open how to make it tough for the batters.

Says Williams:

"The hardest ball for any batter, good or poor, to hit is a low ball on the outside.

"It's farthest from the direct line of vision between the pitcher and batter, hence harder to judge. It's farther away from you than any other ball and hence harder to hit effectively and get your swing behind it, well timed.

"There are mighty few batters in the game that have any success hitting such a ball. Off hand, Eddie Collins was about the best man I ever saw to connect with one of them, but no batter can hit a ball in that spot with any regularity or certainty.

"It's a mighty hard job to put the ball there. The pitcher must hit a target virtually not more than six inches high—from the knee to about six inches above it—and keep the ball over the extreme edge of the plate. Few pitchers have the control to take a chance on that kind of a ball.

"Walter Johnson had the greatest control of any pitcher in the league, as everyone knows, and he tried to slip a few past the batter in that spot in tight places."

Williams starts his career as a Boston played with one championship already cinched. He holds the long distance driving record for baseball players for the year. He and his family drove just 3,820 miles by auto to reach the Red Sox camp at Bradenton, Fla. The Williams home is in Grant's Pass, Ore.

They made the trip in 40 minutes less than 10 days, counting the three hours difference in time encountered en route, averaging 382 miles a day.

"And the greater part of one of the 10 days was spent in the ditch," says Williams. "I tried to make a little time on slippery pavement and we made the acquaintance of a telephone pole."

Mrs. Williams drove part of the way. She wasn't driving, however, when the accident occurred.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF NEW YORK MARKET

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, April 21.—The decline on bank resources for the financing of the sensational bull market in industrial stocks precipitated drastic action on the part of the Reserve Bank authorities this week, in the form of an increase in the rediscount rate of the Boston and Chicago banks from 4 to 5½ per cent.

Announcement of the change in rates was made a few minutes after the close of the market on Thursday, preceding by about half an hour the release of the weekly Reserve Bank report on brokerage loans, which showed an increase of $134,000,000 in speculative borrowing, and an aggregate above $7,000,000,000 for the first time. Washington dispatches emphasized the fact that the Reserve board officials and the U. S. Treasury heads were somewhat in disagreement about the policy of higher money rates, the former holding to the view that drastic action was needed to keep the country from "running to the bad" in wild stock speculation, while the Treasury heads urged the necessity of low rates until the refunding of the Third Liberty Loan bonds has been completed.

Market Turns

Until the close of the market on Thursday the bullish party, in Wall street rode rough shod over the market, strongly supporting their speculative favorites and driving the bears before them in their spirited bidding for stocks in all sections of the list. A large volume of profit taking has easily been absorbed in a market which declined in the volume of transactions to 3,800,000 shares, as compared with five successive four million shares and more sessions in the preceding week. Public participation in the market expanded on an enormous scale, and the governors ordered the market close on Saturday to provide an opportunity to "catch up" on clerical work.

The industrial and specialty stocks broke 2 to 7 points at the opening of the market on Friday, but the bulls were far from admitting that conditions had been completely reversed in their strenuous "campaigning" for higher prices, and within a half hour the favorite speculative stocks were aggressively sailing back to the higher levels and regaining the lost ground. Radio Corporation which broke from 162½ to 175½ sold above 180 within 20 minutes after the opening gong had sounded.

Support Extended

Strong support was extended to the speculative industrial stocks in this period, with brokerage houses also found a ready response from the outside public, which paid little attention to money conditions and call loan rates. Flushed by their success in "making" the market for the high prices specialty stocks since the first week in March, powerful stock speculators and pools jumped into the breach and again stood ready to back their judgment with millions of dollars, taking all stock offered at a few points concessions from current prices.

Bankers were somewhat divided in their opinion to the effect of the raising of the Boston and Chicago Reserve bank rediscount rates. Such action in the past has not always been followed by an advance in the New York bank rate, but such has been the heavy drain on the banks in the form of so-called brokers loans that a higher rate was forecasted in prominent banking circles. Whether this comes next week or next month is immaterial to many banking institutions.

Not only so, but time money rates and bankers acceptances were marked up to the highest level of the year rate today.

The good influx from the outside banking circles was accepted in Wall Street as a more accurate criterion of money conditions that the jumping up of Reserve bank rates. Bankers also pointed to the continued demand for high grade bonds and some investment securities at the highest prices of the year.

Nothing of any great consequence was reported in the industrial and business world. Demand for finished steel has broadened moderately, with a few makers of popular motor cars reporting their inability to keep pace with the demands of their selling agencies.

The commodity markets were firm, though wheat and corn were unable to regain their early gains, and sold off about 2 cents a bushel near the week end. Crude rubber declined to a new low around 17 cents a pound. Cotton was steady, with narrow price changes. The commodity markets and the banks did not join in the Saturday closing movement voted by the governors of the Stock Exchange in New York and other financial centers.

Mayor Witness To Auto Crash

Calls Police And Driver Of Car Faces Serious Charge As Result

As a result of an accident occuring last evening on North street, Chester Day and a companion were arrested by Officers Thompson, Dukes and Nelson. This morning Day was taken before Alderman Walter T. Hamilton, where he was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Day admitted, following his arrest, that he had had two bottles of home brew beer about 40 minutes prior to the accident, but claimed that the accident was not his fault but was due to the carelessness of the driver of the other car, T. R. Haflus, 222 Topeka Boulevard, San Antonio, Texas.

Haflus in his report alleged that he was going west on North street about 50 feet west of the intersection of North and East streets, when Day's car going east on North street, ran into and damaged his machine. The Day machine was badly damaged.

Mayor William H. Gillespie was enroute home up East street, when the crash occured and went to the scene. SLIPPERY ROCK TO SEND LARGE DELEGATION HERE

Will Have Dinner At Cathedral And Attend Auditorium Program

Seventy residents of Slippery Rock will come to the Scottish Rite Cathedral May 7 for the purpose of having a dinner and afterwards seeing a national attraction which will be presented in the Cathedral auditorium on that date according to Herbert Peairs manager of he Cathedral. The delegation from Slippery Rock will be headed by Herbert Smith, a banker.

Mr. Peairs to feel out the sentiment towards presenting large dramatic companies in New Castle in the future has sent a letter asking the close cooperation of the various civic clubs in the city. It is Mr. Peairs belief that New Castle should not hereafter be considered off the theatrical map since it has one of the largest auditoriums between Philadelphia and Cleveland. But he would like to know just what sort of entertainment the people of New Castle like. He suggests that if any of the citizens have any ideas on the subject they write to him at the Scottish Rite Cathedral.

Still, if they manufacture something guaranteed to pay for itself in six months they have collectors just as hard-boiled as any others.

Street Railways Carry Big Total Of Riders Yearly

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 21.—Every man, woman and child in Pennsylvania is entitled to approximately 175 street car rides a year, according to compilations made public today by the Pennsylvania Department of Internal Affairs. Departmental records show approximately 1,700,000,000 persons have been carried on the street railways lines of the state in recent years. Although children under 6 do not usually pay fares but in the deductions they are included and would be entitled to 175 full-fare rides each year, according to the compilations.

HARRISBURG, April 21.—More than a billion and a half passengers are carried on the street railway lines in Pennsylvania each year, according to a statistical study of the industry made public today by Secretary of Internal Affairs James F. Woodward. A table covering the years 1920 to 1926 prepared by the bureau of statistics in the Department of Internal Affairs, shows that the industry as a whole in the state has both decreased and then slightly increased during the seven-year period.

In 1920 street cars in Pennsylvania carried 1,840,067,724 passengers, the highest number in the seven-year survey. In 1921 the passenger total fell to 1,703,770,813 and in the following year decreased still further to 1,635,896,611. During the year 1923 when business generally showed an increase, passengers totaled 1,805,773,-197, but in 1924 another decrease was shown when 1,758,945,245 passengers were carried. For the third successive year a decrease was shown when in 1925 the passenger total was 1,740,-299,534. The year 1926 developed a slight increase as the total number of passengers rose 1,742,044,390.

Abandon Track

During the seven-year period more than 300 miles of tracks were abandoned in the state. In 1920 the various railways companies operated 4,582 miles of trackage and in 1922 the total mileage jumped to 4,775, the highest figure during the period. In 1925 there were 4,541 miles of tracks operated and in 1926 the total dropped to 4,446 miles. Figures on the number of cars showed up correspondingly with the trend of the times. In 1290 a total of 9,516 cars were operated and in 1922 the total reached 9,549, decreasing from that year until 1926, when 8,862 cars were operated.

Railways companies, as a whole, earned comparatively little money during the seven-year period. The total income of all the companies operated in Pennsylvania in the seven year period. The total income of all companies operated in Pennsylvania in the seven years was $805,-762,711, while the disbursements totaled $797,161,580. In 1920, 1921, 1922 and 1924 disbursements and income were very close, so that it remained for the larger earnings to be credited to the other years in the period.

ABE MARTIN On Youthful Bandits

This communitiy is breathin' considerably easier since Constable Plum rounded up a darin' bandit gang that's been terrorizin' th' countryside fer several years. Th' catch wuz brought about by nailin' up th' front an' back doors o' th' Acme Pool & Soft Drink Parlor, where th' outlaws wuz in conference, an' then callin' th' fire department. Th' complete gang, six in all, laid down ther arms quietly. Ralph Wick, 17, Venetian Terrace, th' leader o' th' desperadoes, has been under suspicion ever since he begun t' take guitar lessons. A dozen G strings found sewed in th' linin' of his cap were identified by th' Model Music Emporium as havin' been lifted from that establishment on th' night o' February 12th, along with five guitars, four bass drums an' a gross o' saxophones.

Young Wick has allus stood high. He graduated from high school last spring, an' has never been seen about th' drug store. His mother is greatly shocked, an' says he's been a model son, fond o' flowers an' music, careful on clothes, an' had talked considerable o' bein' a lawyer. Lawrence Mopps, 17 1-2, Irene street, with a long record o' athletic achievements t' his credit an' pop'lar in th' younger set, refuses t' talk, 'cept t' say that he wuz at home in bed when he wuz caught in th' poolroom. A search of his home turned up three stolen cars, four sawed-off shotguns, eighteen cocaine needles, an' four cases o' canned peaches. His mother an' father both say he's allus been a fine, thoughtful son. "I don't believe he ever robbed a chain grocery without bringin' his little sister a bag full o' animal crackers," sobbed his mother. Vincent Pusey, 17 1-3, E. Maybelle avenue, denies that he knows any o' th' other bandits, an' says he works ever' day at th' tile mills. Four hundred postoffice money order blanks wuz found on him, also two mail order revolvers, an' four skeleton keys. A search of his home revealed five 1,000-pound lawn rollers, seven bran new anvils, eight grind stones, a gross o' pearl beads an' a high-powered roadster stolen at Mechanicsburg Ohio. His mother says that as fer as she knows he's allus been a fine boy. She wuz out playin' cards when told of her son's arrest, but cheerfully handed over th' keys t' her home t' th' sheriff. Atwell Plummer 13, E. Florinel street, th' youngest o' th' sextette, has been under surveillance ever since one of his school books wuz found in th' cashier's cage after th' sensational holdup o' th' Skunk Ridge Bank. He has steadfastly refused t' talk since his arrest, 'cept t' ask the turnkey t' 'phone fer his ukulele. He's allus been a dandy boy, an' a great student, bein' particularly strong on English history an' th' men th' wars are about, an' does not own a derby hat. Eleven quarts o' Vat 69 Scotch wuz found in his bed at home. His mother says she knowed he would take a drink on occasions, but she'd never seen him when he wuzn't himself. Roscoe Meadows, exactly 17, Fredonia Plaza, son o' Rev. Cecil Meadows, wuz wounded when caught, eighteen slugs bein' removed from his back. He says he'd been at home all evenin' an' knew nothin' o' th' slugs. His parents claim they left him at home workin' on a school paper havin' t' do with Uncle Sam in Nicarauguy. A truck full o' stolen merchandise wuz found at his home. Wilbur Trout, almost 17, Marguerite Parkway, is th' only member o' th' outlaw gang who seems t' realize th' seriousness of his situation. Droppin' his bravado an' lightin' a cigarette, he made a clean breast o' th' gang's operations, turnin' over fourteen diamond rings, an' clearin' up 391 burglaries, 791 holdups, 13 fires, three mysterious disappearances, an' 1,113 stolen cars, depredations coverin' a period of over three years. Mrs. Trout, prominent in club affairs, an' work among th' fallen, wuz amazed at her son's confession, an' said, "Only last evenin' he kissed me good-by, an' said he wuz goin' over t' th' public library t' dig up some dope about George Rogers Clark. He seemed t' live fer his school work."

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

The tourists are home from the south, and yesterday another tourist got back from a long vacation in France, James J. McMillin. Jimmy has been sojourning since last fall in Gay Paree and from his accounts, Paris is still far from being a crossroads village.

The feeling against Americans, what little there might have been a couple of years ago, has vanished, he says, and this can be traced to two things—the stabilization of the franc and the visit of the American Legion last fall.

Mr. McMillin went over with William McCombs, a New Castle newspaperman, who is employed there on the Paris edition of the Chicago Tribune. Mr. McCombs was in France during the World War and since then he has made several trips back across.

As to any comparison between the United States and France, there "just ain't any," according to James J. And in the United States New Castle stands out as a mighty good place to be.

Didja ever wonder what a drummer in a jazz orchestra thinks of the dancers as he sits there, strumming away on his percussion instruments. Try it some time if you can drum and get a lot of fun out of it. Doc Lamson, drummer of the Harlejacks, wanted time out for a smoke last night in the cathedral and I took his place with the sticks. Now the Harlejacks are good, but for some reason when I hammered out a waltz with them, they didn't seem to be one bit improved.

It was quite a party. The occasion was a meeting of the Consistory Dinner club with Attorney William J. Moffatt as general chairman and Attorney Thomas W. Dickey as chairman of the evening. The food was good, as it always it at a dinner served by the Wimodausis, and the entertainment after kept up the average. DeLace Cole and Lou Pearsall had a sister act which some booking agent for Keith-Albee might look over, and Anna Eva Fray was secured to do a little traumaturging. Seering, or prophesying, or what have you. The madame answered all questions asked and some not asked. She bears a remarkable resemblance to Dr. H. H. Rosenthal. During the meal the M. & D. Radio people had a special hookup with eastern stations and got some fine feature programs which Graham McNamee knew nothing of. And of course Red Williams and Doc Dickey shook things up with their pep singing.

Industries Of State Kill 150 In March

Accidents Increase Over February But Less Than March 1927

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 21.—Pennsylvania's industries took a toll of 150 killed and 12,539 injured during March, according to complete reports announced today by the bureau of statistics of the Department of Labor and Industry. The totals are based on reports made to the bureau of Workmen's compensation.

While the accident totals for March were slightly greater than those for February they showed a decrease of 13 fatal accidents and 1793 non-fatal as compared with the same month last year.

Totals for the first quarter of the year show 459 deaths as compared with 517 in the same period in 1927. Anthracite coal mining continued to furnish almost one-fourth of all fatal accidents. During the quarter 115 men were killed in the anthracite field and 90 in the bituminous. Next in order came construction and contracting with 44 deaths and then steam railroads which caused 36.

The bureau pointed out that its continued drive against the industrial danger of carelessness with objects which may drop during construction and repair work apparently is slowly bringing results. Falling objects caused 117 deaths in the quarter as compared with 156 for the same period last year.

Under the cause classification cars and engines were the cause of the next greatest death list. Eighty-two persons were killed under that classification while explosives, the third classification, caused 52 fatalities.

The bureau also stressed the effect the new compensation law, reducing from ten to seven days the non-compensable period, is increasing compensation claims. During January the first month in which the new law was effective only 45 cases in the seven to ten day group were reported. In the same group the February report showed 384 and in March there were 572.
